Weather Bureau.
Toledo, O., June 13, 1892.

The weather over the entire country during the 48 hours has been fair and very warm, with the exception of North and South Dakota and Minnesota. Over these states rain has fallen.

There is a storm of slight energy central over the southwest, but as yet it has not caused any rainfall.

There is an area of high pressure covering the eastern states and another covering the west and northwest.

The conditions indicate a continuation of the warm and dry weather until a storm advances that will draw the moist air from the Gulf of Mexico.

The temperature ranges from 44 degrees in the extreme northwest to 84 degrees on the gulf coast.

Forecast for next 36 hours for Toledo and vicinity—Fair and continued warm weather.

RIOT IN IRELAND,

Limerick Again Sees War Times.

The Rival Factions Meet on the Streets

And Pound Each Other Most Brutally.

The Bloody Scenes Again Repeated.

In the Meantime People on This Side of the Water are Urging That More Funds be Sent Abroad.

Dublin, June 13.—In addition to the encounter at Tralee, the rival factions of the Irish nationalists had a severe conflict at Limerick Sunday.

The battle began in an attempt by anti-Parnellites to break up a Parnellite meeting.

The latter had heard rumors of the intended attack and were fully prepared with shillelahs and other weapons for their antagonists.

The Parnellites had a band which occasionally played various patriotic airs, interspersed with howls of derision and defiance from the enemies of Mr. Parnell. One enthusiastic Parnellite shouted that he wanted a "Haley" to come on so that he could settle accounts with him then and there.

The anti-Parnellites howled back defiance at their opponents and one individual, wearing a long tailed coat, deliberately stepped up in front of the Parnellite crowd and swung the tail in their faces, crying out that there was not a Parnellite in the lot who would dare to tread on it.

The coat tail was seized by a dozen hands and wrenched away from the owner and the enraged Parnellites proceeded to execute a war dance upon it.

The anti-Parnellites rushed forward to rescue the coat tails, while the main body with shillelahs flourishing, and howls of rage, intermingling with cries of pain, were soon mixed up in a confused mass struggling, panting, bruised and bruising humanity.

The whacking shilelahs could now and then be heard above the din of the combat and occasionally stones were thrown, causing ugly injuries, although stone throwing was rather risky, owing to friend and foe being so mixed up together.

There was not much left of the band.

What remained of instruments were seized for weapons and the combatants could be seen belaboring each other with trumpets and drum sticks.

As the fight grew furious the police assembled and charged the mob with drawn batons.

At first neither side paid any attention to the police, but kept up their fighting and the struggle was at such close quarters that the police could hardly make any impression. Suddenly a voice was heard in the crowd: "Here's Balfour's bull dogs, boys, let us give it to them."

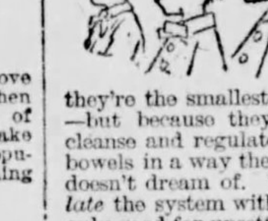
Then was witnessed a singular scene. The two factions, but a moment before engaged in furious strife, suddenly stopped fighting each other and turned with equal fury against the police. Stones were thrown in volleys at the constables and a rush was made at them with shillelahs.

The police, however, were firm.

They plied their batons without mercy, and at the same time maintained a regular front at the mob. Every now and then one of the foremost of the mob was seized and quickly passed to the rear and handcuffed.

The firmness and discipline of the police soon told in the struggle and the mob, wearied of punishment, at length broke and scattered in all directions. On taking account of the injured it was found that two men had their skulls fractured in the fracas, but whether by the police or the mob does not appear.

This is the third fight of the campaign, preparatory to the general election, the first or opening fight having occurred at Navan, in the county of Meath, a few days ago, when the anti-Parnellites held a convention to select candidates to oppose Messrs. Mahony and Shiel. The convention was attended by a large number of the clergy who are conspicuous on the anti-Parnellite side. In that fight, as already cabled, Mr. Davitt was injured, a number of the clergy and others also coming in for rough usage. All indications point to a very lively struggle between the two factions during the summer.



The smallest is the best in pills, other things being equal. But, with Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, nothing else is equal. They're the best, not only because they're the smallest, and the easiest to take—but because they do more good. They cleanse and regulate the liver, stomach and bowels in a way the hugh, old-fashioned pill doesn't dream of. Think of trying to regulate the system with the ordinary pill. It's only good for upsetting it.

These are mild and gentle—but thorough and effective, no pain—no griping. One little pellet for a laxative—three for a cathartic. The best Liver Pill known. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels are prevented, relieved and cured.

Put up in sealed vials—a perfect vest-pocket remedy, always convenient, fresh and reliable.

They're the cheapest pill you can buy for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. It's a plan of sale peculiar to Dr. Pierce's medicines.

Decatur, Ind., June 13.—(Special)—Sunday, while some twenty young men were bathing in the St. Mary's river at this place, William Reynolds was seized with cramps and drowned before aid could reach him.

Young Reynolds was very popular with the people of this city.

He was employed by the Chicago & Erie as telegraph operator at this place.

THE DAY OF ST. ANTHONY

Eight Thousand People Assemble

To Have Their Infirmities Cured.

Fr. Mollinger Still Drawing Large Crowds at His Church in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 13.—This is St. Anthony's day in the Roman Catholic calendar. For weeks past men, women and children in all stages of disease and deformity have congregated about Mount Troy, Allegheny, until last evening there were about 2,000 present, anxiously waiting the dawn of the day upon which the healing power of Father S. G. Mollinger is said to be the strongest.

The opening of Father Mollinger's new private chapel will be a feature of to-day's ceremonies.

The edifice, erected at a cost exceeding $200, is one of the finest of its kind in the world. In the rear part of this chapel are kept the sacred relics. There are hundreds of them under glass cover.

To-day's exercises began with mass at 6 o'clock, and once every hour thereafter until 10 o'clock solemn high mass was celebrated, Father Murphy, of Holy Ghost college, preaching the sermon.

The chief ceremony of the occasion will be at 2 o'clock this afternoon when Father Mollinger will give his blessing to the afflicted in his new chapel, applying the sacred relics of his patron saint, St. Anthony.

Even before the break of day this morning the throng began to ascend the steep sides of Mount Troy, and at an early mass it was estimated that 5,000 people were present.

As the day advanced the crowd increased until at the hour for solemn high mass between 8,000 and 10,000 were on the grounds surrounding the small edifice. There was much suffering from the merciless rays of the sun pouring down upon them from which there was no escape or protection.

CHURCH RIOT IN CLEVELAND

Poles Go on the War Path in Earnest.

Rival Factions in a Church Pound Each Other in True Heathen Fashion.

Cleveland, June 13.—The trouble in the Polish Roman Catholic parish of St. Stanislaus reached a climax Saturday evening in an out and out fight, in which clubs, stones, knives and a squad of policemen with drawn clubs figured prominently.

For nearly an hour a howling mob surrounded the priest's house and yelled and screamed and cursed and finally fought with fury. It was a mob, no other word will express it.

Black eyes, blood-streaked faces and clothing, and in several cases more serious wounds were the results of the conflict. The fight was the outcome of the old trouble between the friends and enemies of Father A. F. Kolaszewski, who was until last Saturday the priest of the parish. The church is divided, the majority being opposed to Father Kolaszewski on account of alleged acts which were unbecoming to him as a minister and a man.

Last Tuesday he packed up his earthly possessions, presumably at the request of Bishop Horstmann, and started for Syracuse, N. Y., where he takes charge of another parish. Early Wednesday morning another priest came to Cleveland and quietly took possession of the St. Stanislaus parish house.

He is Rev. Benedict Rosinski, who was at one time Rev. Kolaszewski's assistant at St. Stanislaus' church, but who has been of late pastor of a parish in Berea. The change was made very quietly. Many members of the congregation went to church last Sunday expecting to hear Rev. Kolaszewski preach his farewell sermon. Contrary to their expectations he did not mention the fact that he intended to leave.

The first intimation the congregation had that the change had been made was when Rev. Rosinski celebrated mass Thursday morning. There was no demonstration at that time, but the matter became noised about, and there were many warm discussions between Kolaszewski's friends and the opposed faction.

The first public demonstration was while mass was being celebrated by Rev. Rosinski Friday morning. At that time a woman went to the sacristy and asked to see the pastor. Rev. Rosinski was pointed out to her and she immediately began to cry in Polish at the top of her voice: "Oh, I don't want to see him. I want our dear old priest, Father Kolaszewski." The refrain was caught up by a number of women in the church and for a time the scene resembled a "wake." The excitement all passed away before the service was ended, and it was thought that there would be no more trouble.

The next public demonstration occurred Saturday night, and compared with it, the one of Friday morning was as nothing. Police were called in and put the rioters to flight.

DEMOCRATS OF OHIO

Are Now on the Ground in Columbus

Preparing for the State Convention.

Everything Points to Harmony in the Ranks and a Strong Big Four to Chicago.

Columbus, June 13.—(Special)—The democratic convention will open at 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning. The district meetings are called for Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when members of the various committees will be chosen. These committees will hold sessions in the evening, and will therefore be ready to report as soon as the speech of the temporary chairman, Hon. James E. Neal, is delivered.

Everything betokens an interesting convention, but there will not be any cause for ill-feeling from factional squabbles. Delegates are dropping in, and the general talk indicates there will be harmony. There will undoubtedly be a ballot for two of the delegates-at-large, at least, but the names suggested are of such character that the choice of any of them will prove satisfactory to the democracy of the state.

There seems to be no objection to the choice of Senator Brice and Gov. Campbell, and they will likely be chosen by acclamation, out of compliment to their high standing and past services. For the other two places a lively scramble is anticipated. Many democrats from different localities desire the honor, and it may take several ballots to arrive at a decision. From the northwest Hon. Frank H. Hurd will be presented, and he will have the cordial support of his former constituents.

Montgomery county will cast its vote for Hon. John A. McMahon, and the neighborhood is expected to swell the number.

Larry Neal has many warm friends who want to see him honored, and he is among the possibilities.

Franklin county will have a candidate in the person of Allen W. Thurman. He will have a good following.

Cleveland has a mint of good democrats who are suggested. There is Virgil P. Kline, Mayor Armstrong, Robert Blee, and ex-Mayor Babcock. Others talked of are Congressmen Warwick, Harter and Outhwaite, besides Gen. Morgan, Gen. Rice, and Judge Ermston. From such an excellent list a mistake cannot be made.

As to the state ticket, it will be a strong one. Some splendid timber is available, but it looks as if Representative W. A. Reiter or ex-Speaker Hysell would be the nominee for secretary of state. Equally good men will be slated for the other positions.

There are not enough delegates on hand to make a reasonably correct prediction, but by this evening sentiment will solidify and a full list of nominees will be agreed upon without friction.

In order that the various delegations may know of the places of meeting, the following from the local committee's circular is given:

First and Second districts—Hamilton county. At governor's office.

Third—Montgomery, Preble and Butler counties. State board of agriculture rooms.

Fourth—Allen, Auglaize, Shelby, Darke and Mercer counties. Board of public works, room 1.

Fifth—Defiance, Henry, Paulding, Putnam, Van Wert and Williams counties. Secretary of state, room 1.

Sixth—Clinton, Brown, Clermont, Warren, Highland and Greene counties. Secretary of state, room 2.

Seventh—Clark, Fayette, Miami, Pickaway and Madison counties. State board of charities.

Eighth—Delaware, Union, Champaign, Logan, Hardin and Hancock counties. State board of agriculture, room 2.

Ninth—Fulton, Lucas, Wood and Ottawa counties. Auditor's office, room 1.

Tenth—Adams, Scioto, Pike, Jackson, Lawrence and Gallia counties. Attorney general's office.

Eleventh—Ross, Vinton, Hocking, Athens, Meigs and Perry counties. Insurance commissioner's office, room 1.

Twelfth—Franklin and Fairfield counties. Board of public works, room 1.

Thirteenth—Sandusky, Erie, Seneca, Wyandot, Crawford and Marion counties. Sinking fund commissioner's office.

Fourteenth—Lorain, Huron, Ashland, Richland, Knox and Morrow counties. Board of public works commission.

Fifteenth—Muskingum, Guernsey, Noble, Morgan and Washington counties. Office of treasurer of state.

Sixteenth—Carroll, Harrison, Jefferson, Belmont and Monroe counties. Auditor's office, room 2.

Seventeenth—Wayne, Holmes, Coshocton and Tuscarawas counties. Railroad commissioner's office.

Eighteenth—Stark, Mahoning and Columbiana counties. State mine inspector's office.

Nineteenth — Ashtabula, Trumbull, Geauga, Portage and Summit counties. Inspector of shops and factories.

Twentieth and Twenty-first districts—Medina, Cuyahoga and Lake counties. Senate chamber.

At such meeting each district will choose one vice-president and one member for each of the following committees: Credentials, permanent organization, rules and order of business, resolutions, state central committee.

The committees will meet at the following places: Credentials, board of public works, state house; permanent organization, state board of agriculture; rules and order of business, state auditor's office; resolutions, attorney general's office; state central committee, house of representatives.

GROVER IS ALL RIGHT.

Interesting Interview With Ex-Governor Campbell.

Columbus, June 13.—Ex-Gov. James E. Campbell has arrived home from New York, where he has been for several days past on private business.

During his stay there an interview purporting to be with him was sent out over the country, in which the ex-governor was quoted in a way that threw cold water upon the candidacy of Grover Cleveland, and indicated that he believed Governor Flower was the most available New York democrat for the presidency.

This was so contradictory to Mr. Campbell's frequent utterances here that it caused much surprise among the local democrats and was the occasion of much comment.

Governor Campbell says the interview was bogus. It was manufactured out of a brief talk had with the New York reporter in which the conversation in no way bore a semblance to the sensational statements which followed.

A reporter called upon the governor and found him at the bedside of a sick child. He was able, however, to deny the words put in his mouth by the interview and add some expressions which will be interesting at the present time.

"From the opportunity I have had the past few weeks in visits to the northwest and the east, I am quite sure that Mr. Cleveland's chances are as promising as ever and I believe he will be nominated, though I may be mistaken," said the governor to a query.

"Has Mr. Harrison's nomination in any way improved Mr. Cleveland's candidacy?"

"I don't think it has had any effect. Had Mr. Blaine been nominated I think Mr. Cleveland would have had no material opposition."

"What appears to be the sentiment of the New York democrats in regard to a candidate?"

"That is a hard question to answer. There is much opposition to Mr. Cleveland, particularly since the Syracuse convention, but then Mr. Cleveland has a strong following there as elsewhere and they are enthusiastic for him."

"And as to a western candidate?"

"There is much talk of candidates from the west just as there is of Governor Flower, Secretary Whitney or Senator Gorman. All of these gentlemen would be satisfactory to the New York democracy, I believe."

"Do you think Mr. Cleveland, if nominated, could carry New York?"

"I believe any democrat mentioned in connection with the presidency could carry the Empire state. Of course Mr. Cleveland would have opposition, but the republican ticket will not find a sea of harmony to float in."

"Could Tammany be reconciled to Mr. Cleveland's nomination?"

"A big part of them would, I am sure."

"Has the Hill boom collapsed?"

"It looks somewhat that way," replied the governor.

Governor Campbell will occupy a seat in the democratic state convention as a delegate from old Butler. He does not anticipate any heated contest in the selection of delegates-at-large to Chicago, though he says there will probably be a number of names presented for the honor.

Notes Picked Up.

The state committee has headquarters at the Neil house.

Columbus political clubs will keep open house during the convention.

Chairman Norton has a little speech to make in presenting Col. Neal.

Senator Brice and Gov. Campbell are "dead sure" Chicago delegates.

Convention will be held in the Grand opera house, adjoining the City hall.

Sam Phipps, of Youngstown, will be sergeant-at-arms of the convention.

There is not that hurrying to and fro just now which was the case last year at Cleveland.

A great speech is expected from Temporary Chairman James E. Neal, who, by the way, is a great favorite.

Lucas county delegates will do a job of good work to elect Frank Hurd as one of the delegates to Chicago.

Hon. Frank Hunrd came down from Toledo this afternoon, and is making friends in his race for delegate at large.

Democratic delegates are helping to jolly the local republicans, who are in poor spirits since the Minneapolis convention.

Opinion is divided as to who should be the democratic nominee for president, and the delegates to Chicago will go uninstructed.

The citizens' committee has been subdivided and a delegation will have charge of each hotel, to look after the wants of the visitors.

Col. W. A. Taylor is chairman of the press committee, and it is unnecessary to say the pencil-pushers will be carefully provided for.

Auditor Crites, of Allen county, is mentioned as chairman of the new state central committee. He is somewhat of a hustler, too.

Lightning may strike the newspaper fraternity in the secretary of state nomination. Col. Taylor and Claude Meeker are talked of for the place.

Nominees to be chosen: Secretary of state, two judges of the supreme court, member of the board of public works, and clerk of the supreme court.

The Ninth district, by the grace of the republican gerrymander, has two state committeemen located within its boundaries, Wood and Lucas counties being thus honored.

Will Workingmen Ever See Into the Trap?

Wages Cut Down Forty Percent and Non-Union Men to Take the Places.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 13.—A bitter struggle between capital and labor is expected to begin at the Homestead steel works of Carnegie, Phipps & Co., owing to a proposed reduction of from 10 to 40 per cent. in wages.

The Carnegie firm is preparing to put non-union men in the workmen's places, and are making preparations for a long siege.

NATIONAL GUARDS' CONTEST.

Troops of the National Competitive Drill Association at Omaha.

Omaha, Neb., June 13.—The Sealey rifles, of Galveston, Tex., have arrived, the advance guard of the military companies which will next week participate in the meeting of the National Competitive Drill association.

There were 57 men in the contingent. The Belknap rifles, of San Antonio, also arrived and went into camp on the fair grounds, where a great city of white tents has sprung up.

In front of the commander's tent a large flagstaff has been planted and the flag will float over the largest encampment of national guards ever held in America.

Sergeants E. H. Loffhagen and Charles Palmer, of the Branch guards, of St. Louis, arrived and proceeded at once to camp to complete arrangements for the entertainment of the crack St. Louis team.

Arrangements have been made with Col. Park, commander of the Second United States infantry, to have the regiment join in the grand parade on Tuesday.

Col. Park has ordered the battalion of the Second, now at Bellevue Rifle range, to report at Fort Omaha for duty at once. The companies that will participate in the competition will come from Colorado, Indiana, Missouri, Arkansas, Texas, Ohio, Michigan, Nebraska, Illinois Tennessee, California, and Washington, D. C.

REPORTED LOSS OF LIFE.

Sensational Telegram From Lake Minnetonka.

Fifty People Said to Have Been Drowned by the Capsizing of a Steamboat.

Chicago, June 13.—A Tribune special from St. Paul says: A sensational rumor was current on the streets of St. Paul late last night that a steamer had been overturned on Lake Minnetonka about 11:30 during a storm, and that 50 or 75 people had been drowned.

The rumor could not be confirmed.

It appeared to have started from the fact that a small sailboat was overturned during a squall in the afternoon, although no one was drowned.

The telephone and telegraph wires between here and Minnetonka were down, and it was impossible to learn anything from this source.

People who arrived on the late train from the lake had heard nothing of the accident, though some of them had seen the sailboat capsize.

HIGHWAYMAN ARRESTED.

Nashville, Tex., June 13.—A. J. Greer, chief of a gang of highwaymen, who have committed many robberies, was to-day captured by Deputy Sheriff Jackson and jailed at Huntington.

His arrest was brought about by L. F. Francisco, who was assaulted in May by three masked men and robbed of $3,000. He recognized his assailant's voice and offered $200 reward for their arrest.

THE ALLIANCE TICKET.

A New Combination Proposed Since the Decease of L. L. Polk.

Omaha, Neb., June 13.—The news of the death of L. L. Polk was received with manifestations of grief among the party leaders of the Farmers' alliance. It seemed assured that Polk would be either first or second at the Omaha convention. By some means it seems to have been generally understood that the independent nominees should be selected with a view to concentrate the west and south, as the latter section should be accorded the second place.

To-day a new plan developed which seems to meet with much favor among the leaders of the new party in this section. It is proposed to nominate United States Senator William M. Stewart, of Nevada, for president, and Thomas E. Watson, representative in congress from Georgia, for vice-president. It is now said that Gen. Weaver, who has been most prominently mentioned for the first place, is strongly inclined to favor this ticket.

FLOWER AT THE FALLS.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., June 13.—Gov. Flower and party spent yesterday here. They attended services at the Episcopal church, and, accompanied by Supt. Welch and Commissioner Mooney, they made a tour of the state reservation. The governor left for Elmira over the Erie road this morning.

KILLED IN A CHURCH.

Lightning's Work Around an Altar.

The Priest About the Only One to Escape.

Thousands of People Hasten to the Scene and Help to Alleviate the Suffering.

Madrid, June 13.—The report of a frightful calamity at Meliana, Spain, has just been received.

The worshipers were assembled in church when a storm arose, and raged with frightful violence. The priest calmly proceeded with the regular worship, although many of the congregation, especially the women, showed considerable terror, especially as the peals of thunder were growing louder and louder and the storm center appeared to be approaching the church.

The sky was so overcast that the people in the church could hardly see each other's faces, except when at intervals the place was lighted by vivid flashes of lightning.

Suddenly a fearful crash was heard and several of the women shrieked with fear. The priest, who retained his self-command, turned his upraised hand from the altar, as if to reprove them.

Just as he turned a stunning, hissing noise was heard and a more terrible peal than that which had gone before.

The whole church was wrapped in a blue dazzling light and there arose in the same instant the cries of the wounded and dying, and appeals to the saints and to heaven from the terrified survivors.

Timbers and stone crashed down upon the congregation and a blaze of fire was sent in the wrecked and dismantled roof.

Strange to say the altar was comparatively uninjured and the priest escaped, while half a score of the worshippers lay dead among the ruin wrought by the lightning bolt.

The pastor still retained his senses and he was the first to lead in the work of rescue.

The rain which poured into the church through the gaping hole in the roof soon extinguished the incipient fire, and those who were uninjured were able to care for the dead and wounded without dread of a more terrible visitation.

It was found that 10 of the worshippers were killed by lightning and that 28 were more or less injured, some of them fatally, and others with a poor prospect of surviving.

Thousands of people hastened to the scene and every attention was given to the living and the dead. It is a superstition in Spain that the victims of the lightning are objects of divine wrath, and this superstition has received a severe blow in the present instance, as some of those who perished were noted for purity and religious character.

Another disaster of the same kind happened at Mucientes. A church was struck by lightning. Five were killed and 10 injured.

At Burgost the famous old cathedral was damaged by lightning. The Burgost cathedral is one of the oldest buildings in Spain. Fortunately no one was injured, but one of the walls of the historic edifice was partly thrown down.

WOMEN AT THE FAIR.

What Has Been Accomplished for the Grand Exhibit at Chicago.

New York, June 13.—Mrs. Potter Palmer, president of the board of woman managers of the world's fair, arrived in this city on the steamship Etruria. She was absent seven weeks and visited England, Austria, France and Belgium in the interest of the fair.

Throughout these countries and others which she had not an opportunity to visit, she said the sentiment was favorable in behalf of having a woman's exhibit. The trouble with a great many European countries was that their parliaments, like some of our own state legislatures, did not properly specify what portion of the appropriation should be devoted to the woman's exhibit.

An interesting bit of information obtained from Mrs. Palmer was the fact that there was some dissension in the women's commission from England. The duchess of Abercorn and the countess of Aberdeen, both claim to represent the Irish product, which will be principally lace. Politics entered into the deliberations of the committee, and both claim priority. Several years ago before a world's fair was talked about, Lady Aberdeen was in this country trying to further the sale of Irish manufactures.

The duchess of Abercorn's only claim to represent the Irish industries is that her husband is a tory land owner in that country. Mrs. Palmer, however, thinks the rivalry between the two distinguished ladies will be amicably arranged so Ireland's goods will be properly represented at the fair in Chicago.

Mrs. Palmer said that while our women proclaim to be foremost in every movement they were far behind as regards practical work to their sisters in England. She was rather ashamed at this, but had to admit what she saw.

Among the countries heard from where action has been taken with regard to the women's exhibit are Italy, where the queen is the patroness; Germany, Princess Frederick Christian; Belbium, the queen patroness; France, Mme. Carnot patroness; and Austria, Princess Matternich. Work is being done in the countries which have not yet appointed committees to forward the project and have the governments recognize the importance of a woman's exhibit at the fair.

From such countries as Syria and India, where it is not expected that committees will be appointed by the government, the board of woman managers of the fair are negotiating with American women resident there to send exhibits of everything unique in woman's work.

DIED AT SEA.

New York, June 13.—James Brown Potter, of Bridgeton, N. J., a passenger on the steamer Cherokee from Jacksonville, died on Saturday, the 11th, of heart disease. The body was brought to this port.

M'KINLEY A TRAITOR

The Presidential Bee Buzzed so Hard

That He Forgot His Harrison Obligation.

Interesting Echoes From the Minneapolis Convention—Facts That Will Not Explain Away.

Washington, June 13.—"McKinley's treachery," as it is called, furnishes the staple of conversation in administration circles.

Forty-eight hours before the convention the Ohio governor was the pet of the administration. To-day he is roundly abused by the Harrison men for his alleged disloyalty to the president.

It is said here by those who reflect white house opinion that Governor McKinley has not only lost the confidence of the administration, but that he has ruined himself in Ohio as well; that the Harrison influence will not only be used against him in the state, but that it will be equally hostile should he ever aspire to an office of national character.

About a month ago a letter was sent to Governor McKinley by a close friend of the president. It convered Mr. Harrison's desire that the governor should either put the president in nomination or second the nominating speech.

Governor McKinley, as the story goes, held the letter a week. Then he answered it. He was apparently unwilling to trust the reply to the mails. He gave it to Judge Davis, of Columbus, who came on to Washington and delivered it to the president personally.

It pledged the latter twenty-eight of Ohio's forty-six votes and assured him of McKinley's cordial desire to secure his re-nomination.

A little later the administration began to hear strange stories about the Ohio governor. They were told that Foraker was coquetting with him and that efforts were being made to secure McKinley's consent to announce himself as a candidate.

After McKinley arrived at Minneapolis these reports became more numerous, and the president began to fear that the governor might be won over by the enemy and become a powerful competitor for the nomination.

Accordingly a telegram was sent to Minneapolis telling him to stand by his colors; that if he permitted his name to be used it would bring everlasting disgrace upon the party in Ohio and that it would be detrimental to McKinley's future as well.

Then the administration, according to my informant, kept their eye on the governor. When his name appeared on the roll call significant winks and smothered comments on the part of several of the cabinet ministers were observed at the white house. When the ballot ceased, and McKinley, like Blaine, had gone down in the smoke and dust of battle, Secretary Foster sent the governor another dispatch. It was a bit malicious no doubt, but it was probably pardonable under the circumstances. It was as follows: "Read my dispatch of this morning. It sounds like a prophesy."

THE LARGEST ON THE SEAS.

El Norte to be Launched Tuesday at the Newport News Yards.

New York, June 13.—The largest merchant vessel ever built in an American shipyard is to be launched by the Newport News Shipbuilding company, at Newport News, Va., to-morrow. The vessel has been built for the Morgan line of steamships, and will be christened El Norte. She will be used to carry freight between this city and New Orleans. El Norte is constructed of iron and is of 4,500 tons register. Her dimensions are 380 feet from stem to stern post, 406 feet over all, 48 feet beam and 33.9 feet depth. She has three decks and a partial or top deck at the fore end of the fore-hold. She will be rigged with four iron pole masts and the necessary booms for handling the cargo.

The vessel will be steered by steam. She will be propelled by a vertical triple expansion engine. The cylinders are 32, 52 and 84 inches in diameter, with 54 inch stroke of piston. Up to this time the largest ship ever launched in this country was the steel cruiser New York, which slid from the ways at the Camp's shipyard last November. A sister ship to El Norte, to be named El Rio, is now building on adjoining ways at the Newport News yards, and will be launched in about three months.

TO GO BEFORE THE PEOPLE

Gladstone Called the Turn to a Day.

Irish Educational and Other Bills Have been Abandoned by Balfour.

London, June 13.—In the house of commons to-day Mr. Balfour stated that the Irish education bill and other measures had been abandoned, but that dissolution was not likely before the end of next week. This brings dissolution to about the time—the end of June—originally mentioned by Gladstone in a letter to his constituents of Midlothian.

Soon after Mr. Balfour made his statement a number of members left the house and will probably not make their appearance again during the session.

The news has already been flashed throughout the United Kingdom and the election agencies everywhere stimulated to hasten their preparations for the contest. It is stated that the government did not arrive at a final conclusion until Saturday when those members of the cabinet who have argued against an early dissolution reluctantly gave in to the will of the premier, who has from the first favored a summer election.

CALLS HIM A SCOUNDREL.

Miss McMahon's Persecutor to be Prosecuted.

Port Jervis, N. J., June 13.—Miss McMahon, who was assaulted by Negro Bob Lewis, was highly indignant yesterday over the presumption of P. J. Foley, who was once her lover, and who, it is charged, induced Lewis to assault her. Her indignation was aroused by a letter written by Foley to her father in which he states that they have been engaged since January 5, last, and asks for her hand in marriage. Miss McMahon spurns his proposal and stamps the engagement story a falsehood. She will prosecute the blackmailing charges and expects to appear against him at the examination next Tuesday. Her father denounces Foley as a scoundrel.

New York, June 13.—During the past few days the base ball magnates have been moving about town as though shadowed by detectives. One by one they have dropped into the city, held short conferences and suddenly disappeared. The fact that John T. Brush, A. G. Spalding and Frank DeH. Robinson all came to the city at the same time and that they met quietly with representatives of the Brooklyn and New York clubs between Saturday last and to-day is regarded as suspicious by the wiseacres. What scheme, if any, they have on hand no one knows but themselves. Their actions indicate that something is in the wind, however, and this supposition is based on the ground that none of the old association magnates have heard anything about the mysterious meetings, or at least none of them have been in attendance in the past day or two. As a matter of fact, every president in the twelve-club league with two exceptions have been in the city within the past week and have conferred with the local heads of the clubs. It would be perfectly natural for them to do this when visiting the city with their clubs, but the fact that they made the trip for the especial purpose of attending secret conferences, lends credit to the current rumors.

It is said that the League magnates—the presidents and owners of the clubs formerly in the National League—have tired of the twelve-club arrangement and want to have the circuit reduced. This, according to the agreement entered into at Indianapolis, cannot be done without the consent of the association clubs. This consent cannot be had unless the association clubs are pushed to the wall and are compelled to sell out. This, it is alleged, is the scheme the League men are contemplating. As matters stand the clubs divide profits and losses equally. The losses this season have not amounted to much, but it is claimed in some quarters that the game can be made to pay by reducing the number of clubs. Washington and Pittsburg are spoken of as the first two clubs to suffer. The game was given a blow by the recent trouble, from which, in spite of the best efforts all around, it has not recovered. The League magnates are again in council to-day.

The Bee has stated on several occasions that base ball was in a shaky condition and that squalls could be expected in many quarters. Read the following:

Louisville, June 13.—Milwaukee is after the franchise of the Louisville club, but it stands about as little chance of getting it as the Baltimores do of winning the pennant. The Milwaukee magnates are ambitious. This was shown by the courageous way they broke into the association last season. When the Louisville team began to lose games this year the Brewers suspected that the owners were not averse to getting out of base ball, provided they could do it without losing money. So they sent a man all the way from Milwaukee to offer $30,000 in hard cash for the franchise and players of the local team. The proposition was refused.

The matter was kept very quiet, as the offer of Milwaukee was an evidence that the local team was not doing very well. However, the story was given out by one of the directors yesterday in illustrating the gameness of the Louisville magnates. It has been nine days since the Milwaukee man was here.

Vice-president Ruckstuhl received a dispatch that a meeting of the National league would be held at the Fifth Avenue hotel in New York city to-morrow morning. President Young declared that it was very important that a representative of the Louisville club be present. The object of the meeting was not mentioned. The offer of Milwaukee, coupled with the losing streak of the team, caused a fear that the franchise might be taken away.

If Milwaukee leaves the Western there will be room for Joliet. Toledo and Joliet would draw.

The Kansas City Star has this to say of the last game played there by Toledo:

The Pirates won yesterday's game with ridiculous ease, the Blues playing in the same slovenly style that has characterized their work for the last week. They put up such a measley game that Umpire Serad caught the fever and was as blundering in his decisions as the Blues were in handling the ball. His decision in calling McMahon out on the claim that Mac left third base before Armour caught Albert's fly was about as bad as anything ever seen on a ball field. He was away off on his base decisions generally, and unfortunately for the Blues they were as a rule against them. Serad has also a pernicious habit of evening up, which does not increase his prestige as an umpire.

Hughey started in to pitch for the Blues, but he appeared to have such a severe case of rattles, resulting in three runs being scored in the second inning, that he gave way to Payne, but the south paw twirler fared no better, owing largely, however, to the careless and slovenly support given him by the team. He also was indifferent in his fielding, failing as a rule to back up the bases. Andrus and Eiteljorg played a good fielding game; the former's work of late has been a decided improvement. Lytle's exhibition in center yesterday was wearying. He appears to have no more judgment on a fly hit than the veriest tyro, and invariably lets a ground ball get by him. He is not a striking success, either, as a hitter, and though he did get in a triple yesterday, it was preceded by three hard drives to Darling, who was behind the bat.

Dewald, who pitched for the Pirates, was hit hard, but was saved by the brilliant fielding of Armour and Nichol, who made phenomenal catches. Armour pulled down seven fly hits in left field and participated in a double play, while Nichol took in four long drives to center and made three hits. Ely also put up a great game at short. McMahon of the Blues was strictly in the game with the stick yesterday, but was a trifle off in his throwing and permitted Nichol to score on a thrown ball.

Pitchers Inks and Terry have been released by the managers of the Brooklyn club. According to President Byrne the men have not been released on account of indifferent playing, but to reduce expenses. Terry has not occupied the box this year, but Inks has been used in cases of emergency.

It is also rumored that Stein and Kennedy have been served with a 10-days' notice of release. It is probable that Inks and Terry will both be signed by the Baltimore club. When the big league clubs begin to cut down expenses there's a screw loose in base ball somewhere.

ROUND UP OF THE ELKS.

The Sixth Annual Reunion in Buffalo.

Opening Hours of a Four Day Session.

Two Live Elks to Take Part in the Grand Parade—General Gossip.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 13.—The grand lodge and sixth annual reunion of the Benevolent Order of Elks will meet in this city to-day for a four days' session.

The indications are that the reunion will be one of the largest ever held, and it is expected that fully 5,000 Elks will be in attendance.

At midnight last night over six hundred members of the fraternity had arrived. Among them were delegations from Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo, Mich. The Pittsburg and Youngstown delegates arrived at 9 o'clock last night and marched to their quarters led by a band of music. The Baltimore and Washington lodges arrived later. Among the lodges expected this morning are Louisville, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Brooklyn, Boston, and the Cincinnati delegation with Grand Secretary Allen O. Myers. Grand Exalted Ruler Edwin B. Hay came in with the Washington lodge. Two live elks named "Mary and John," belonging to the Meadville lodge, have arrived and will take part in the parade to-morrow.

The grand lodge sessions will be held in the Academy of Music, which has been handsomely decorated for the occasion.

There is considerable canvassing of delegates for the important offices already. The Louisville lodge presents a candidate for grand exalted ruler in the person of Brother E. J. Apperly.

Judge Griffith, of Troy, is also mentioned for this office, and the present incumbent, Edwin B. Hay, is a candidate for re-election.

The Albany lodge has a candidate for grand secretary in the person of Brother Wolf.

The order now has 224 subordinate lodges and 32,917 members.

STRUCK BY A YACHT.

Two People Drowned in the East River.

The Alva Cuts a Row Boat in Two With Fatal Results to the Occupants.

Newport, R. I., June 13.—Capt. Morrison, of W. K. Vanderbilt's steam yacht Alva, which ran into and swamped a row boat containing a man and a woman in the East river on Saturday, forwarded his report of the accident to-day to the steamboat inspectors in New York.

He says the river was full of small boats at the time and he was going at moderate speed.

When the boat ahead was reported the engines were slowed and the whistle blown.

The man in the boat did not turn about but pulled under the Alva's bow. Capt. Morrison says he did everything in his power to avoid the collision and in his efforts almost ran into the Atlanta. He says the officers of the cruiser will bear out this statement.

He was not guilty of heartlessness, and lowered the boats, but when it was announced that the man and woman had been rescued he went ahead, as the many surrounding craft rendered backing dangerous.

Neither the captain nor Mr. Vanderbilt were aware that any lives had been lost until this morning and Mr. Vanderbilt exonerates the captain. The bodies of the victims have not yet been recovered.

INCENDIARISM.

Four Mysterious Fires Reported in Cleveland.

Cleveland, June 13.—Four incendiary fires occurred in the lumber district yesterday. A part of the yards of N. Mills & Co. and a building owned by Albert Pack were destroyed, involving a loss of $6,000; an incipient conflagration was started in the yard of the Young & Fulton company, and the yards of the Sturtevant Lumber company were fired in two places.

The loss at the three last named places was comparatively trifling, but they demonstrated the fact that the "fire-bugs" had begun operations in the lumber yards again, and intense excitement among those having business interests in the flats resulted. Saturday evening an incendiary blaze was started in a lumber pile at the Carter street yards of Gray, Jenks & Co.

Friday the immense planing mill of that firm on Stone's Levee was burned, causing a loss of $250,000. The latter fire was attributed to spontaneous combustion, but in view of later events there is a well-developed suspicion in some quarters that it was of incendiary origin.

The theory that the fire in the mill was accidental was well received Friday because the blaze seemed to have started in the finishing room where there was a great deal of oil, and the matter attracted no unusual attention.

When the attempt was made Saturday night to burn the extensive yards of Gray, Jenks & Co., where millions of feet of lumber were awaiting shipment, there was a general awakening to the danger of another great conflagration in the flats.

It was a vivid reminder of the fire which laid waste acres of lumber and factories which followed a week later with a loss of $500,000.

The lumber men were quick to act and extraordinary precautions were taken yesterday morning to prevent a recurrence of the fires. An extra force of watchmen was placed on duty in the yards and the police and fire departments arranged to give the district special attention. It was confidently believed that half a dozen fires would surely follow.

The belief was based on previous experience with the lumber yard incendiaries and it was fully verified.

PAYING HIS DEBTS.

George V. Massey to Take Justice Bradley's Place.

THE FIRST FLY OF SUMMER.

'Tis the first fly of Summer
Comes buzzing alone,
All its million companions
Will come later on.
No beast of its kindred,
No insect is nigh
To associate with it—
This one lonely fly.

I'll not leave thee, thou lone one,
To lay all thy eggs.
I'm onto your system,
You're on your last legs,
Thus gently I'll scatter
The powder around,
And soon in the dustpan
Thy body'll be found.

So soon may they follow
Thy brothers and friends,
I'll treat them to powder,
And compass their ends,
When screens fail to stop them
And vicious they grow,
I'll give them a dose that
Will lay them all low.

Hicks Pond, in Palmyra, Me., is a strange body of water. It is only 12 acres in area, but is more than 100 feet in depth. It has no visible inlet, although a fair-sized stream flows from it into Lake Sebasticook. The volume of its waters is not materially affected by either drought or freshet, and the water is always cold.

BRUTAL ASSAULT.

A Race War Threatened by Double Crimes in Guthrie.

Guthrie, O. T., June 13.—There is great excitement in this city, occasioned by two criminal assaults by negroes upon white women. A negro lad named Holley assaulted Mrs. Charles Moore, the wife of a freighter, who was away from home at the time. He was arrested and a mob surrounded the jail threatening to lynch him. The negroes of the town claimed that Holley was innocent, although he had confessed his guilt to the sheriff, and a race war seemed imminent for a time. There was much angry talk. "Judge" Perkins, a negro lawyer, being spokesman for the colored men. During the excitement he said: "Let the whites harm that man and the town will be in ashes before morning."

The sheriff smuggled the prisoner from jail and took him to Wichita, Ks., for safe keeping.

The second outrage was that made upon the wife of James Genken, who is engineer of the electric plant, by an unknown negro who escaped. A posse, headed by Genken, is on his trail, and will lynch him if they capture him.

The negro who assaulted Mrs. Geake was lynched by a mob led by Mr. Geake.

HUNTING THE TIGER.

Terrible Strength of This Great Animal.

Great Cunning When Escaping the Hunters.

How a Luck Shot Saved a Prostrate Hunter—A Famous Shikaree.

We shot no tigers at all during that cold-weather campaign, but several times we might have done so had we possessed any experience, as there were plenty of them about and we found their marks very frequently, says a writer in the American Field. On their part, the gentlemen in striped suits did no harm to the followers or animals of the battery, there being no end of natural food for them in that particular jungle in the shape of deer of all sorts, gazelles, sea fowl, etc. We were so anxious to get even with the monarch of the jungle that we brought a succession of noted tiger slayers to camp as guests from Calcutta and elsewhere, and our failures ceased to be a reproach when these mighty Nimrods declared game to be plenty and the climate too pleasant to give us a fair chance of bagging one.

The greatest shikaree paid us a visit was Maj. Barnes, whose name was known all over Bengal, both as a mighty hunter and as being the tallest man in the British army. He then commanded a cavalry regiment, the Lahore Light Horse, since disbanded. His statue caused him to be selected, some years later, by the then viceroy, Lord Mayo, as queen's herald at the great durbar held at Agra. Barnes was a splendid shot, all-around sportsman, and swordsman. Shortly before he paid us his visit he had made himself notorious by the plucky way in which he had saved the life of a brother officer and sportsman, Maj. Baigrie, who also enjoyed a great name as a tiger shot. At the time of the occurrence Baigrie was quartermaster general of his division of the army, and he, with Barnes, had gone on sixty days' leave into the jungle tiger shooting. One morning they had wounded a tiger, and (they were shooting on foot) had followed it up to the bank of a dry nullah or water course. The banks were very steep and were clothed on both sides with brush so thick and large as to offer a good cover to even so big a beast as a tiger. The nullah, moreover, was some fifteen or twenty feet deep and not overwide at the top. Baigrie declared that the tiger was a runner and had made up its mind to get as far away from the shooters as possible, and that it would not have proceeded any distance up the nullah before climbing the opposite bank. Therefore he voted for going up the bed until the tracks led up the far bank, when they could take up the trail on the opposite level and continue until the beast was brought to bay and to bag—synonyms with both sportsmen.

Barnes' Logic.

Barnes reasoned that this was too terribly risky an operation; that to follow up a wounded tiger under such disadvantages was offering it by far too long odds in the game, and that the proper method would be to go along the bank until they were certain that they were above the points where the animal would have resumed its original line of protection, on the far side of the nullah, and that by then crossing and working downward they would strike the trail without having experienced the risk of position the bank offered the tiger, and then, taking it up, they could go ahead until the animal was found. Not coming to any agreement in their strategy, each man pursued his own course. Baigrie let himself down to the bed of the nullah, while Barnes turned up the side of the bank. Of course they kept in line with each other.

"Here it goes, just as I told you," sung out Baigrie, as he turned to climb the opposite bank, pointing the while to the pug marks which led that way.

"All right," answered Barnes, "but it's pretty risky, and that's a beastly slope to climb, with a wounded tiger, perhaps, in a bush in front of you."

Baigrie began the ascent, Barnes keeping his rifle at full cock watching his friend; but, quick as his eyesight was, his covering care was useless, for as Baigrie grasped a rock by which to haul himself up, there was a gruff, savage roar, and a red and black streak flashed out of a bush just above the climbing man, who a second later was held athwartships in the tiger's mouth. The animal seized him in its act of springing, carried him down a few feet, and there lay with him in its jaws, the lower of which rested upon its forelegs. The two had landed in a path of brush, from which only the tiger's head and forepaws were visible to Barnes, while the whole of Baigrie's length was exposed to him. The tiger had evidently watched the whole of the hunters' operations, and was quite aware that it was master of the situation. It lay there grinning at Barnes and giving an occasional crunch at Baigrie, by way of reminder of the further fate in store for him.

The stricken man was cool as well as brave, and made his calculations in an instant. Luckily the tiger had made no attempt to strike him in its spring, but had used its weight and mouth alone. Had it struck the blow, which is usually the tiger's great means of attack, Baigrie would have been crushed out of all sense at once, even if he had not been killed outright; but as it was, he was better off in that he was only being mangled by the fangs of the brute. He at once called to Barnes to shoot. The answer came across the nullah:

"I dare not. That bank is higher than this. You are just level with me, and I can only make out its forehead."

A tiger's forehead is about as low a thing to shoot at as anything that can be suggested, but Baigrie knew that he had to make a choice, and he cried:

"Take the forehead then, old man. You won't miss it, and if you do, it's better than the other thing. Good-by, if you do; you will have done your best."

The answer came in a flash and a report. At the same instant the tiger made a convulsive spring, and in a moment man and beast both lay apparently dead in the bed of the nullah. The shot had been worth of the fame of the shooter. The tiger never moved again, but Baigrie was up and about in a month's time.

Strength of the Tiger's Arm.

It was while talking about the exploit with Maj. Barnes in our mess tent that I first learned from him the extent of the terrible strength of the tiger's arm. But very few persons who are fairly struck by the king of the jungle ever recover. In most cases they are badly smashed or crushed at the seat of inquiry, and they are nearly equally bad off if the square blow misses and the recipient of the attack is only torn or scratched by the claws.

The major gave us an illustration. While on that trip which had so nearly proved fatal to Maj. Baigrie the two went out tiger shooting one day. They had given the usual orders to the beaters to keep time, on no account to straggle, and if a tiger got afoot to at once collect in groups, but as usual their orders were disobeyed just when it was important that they should have been observed. It almost always happens so. One man will lag behind to cut a stick, another to pick some berries, a flower to decorate the blue-black hair of his Luckshmee, or to fill his pipe made of a fresh green leaf with tobacco. This is the opportunity in which a wounded wild beast takes most delight and he always seems to be on hand at what is to him just the right place. Beaters are never allowed to be armed, though they may have all the guns, pistols, or matchlocks they wish, with all the gunpowder they ask for, provided only they have no shot or balls. If they were allowed to use bullets there would be a wounded tiger to every beat, if such an animal were in that particular jungle, and a proportionate number of men would be killed.

Beaters are taught to owe their safety and immunity from tiger attacks to the clusters they should form the instant that an animal is seen, to their numbers and the noise they make. In the case which Maj. Barnes had taken to illustrate the power of a tiger's blow a man had dropped behind for some purpose or another; the tiger had been wounded by one of the sportsmen in front, had broken back, and seeing the beater solitary had made a leap for him. While in the air, the beast had stricken the man viciously on the head and then had passed on. When the body was picked up the villager's skull was found to be crushed down to the chin, as an egg might be smashed with a five-pound weight, but the fearful force of the assault will be better understood when it is added that, though struck only on the head, yet both of the victim's thigh bones were broken. Had the ground been soft the man's feet would have been driven an inch or two into the earth.

The old whaling bark, Progress, which New Bedford, Mass., will exhibit at the fair, will begin her journey to Chicago some time in June, it is announced. She has been fully rigged and sparred. Her water line has been painted brick red, and her deckhouse, boathouse and davits white. The cabin and staterooms have been grained in oak and carpets have been laid in them. In the saloon will be exhibited a collection of articles used and obtained by whalemen, for example: whalebones taken by a captain who perished in the terrible disaster of 1871, when 33 ships were abandoned, with great loss of life, in the Arctic regions; polar bear skins, pictures of whaling experiences, harpoons, knives, tackle, clothing, boats, etc. The Progress is of 358.62 tons burden, and was built at Westerly, R. I., in 1843.

There was dug up recently at Eliot, Me., a gold ring, bright and shining, bearing the inscription: "Hon. John Frost, Esq., ob. 25 Feb., 1822-3. Ae. 51." Hon. John Frost was the son of Capt. Charles Frost, who was killed by the Indians near the Berwick line of Kittery about 1782. Capt. Frost was a noted Indian fighter, and when he was buried by his friends the Indians dug him up and elevated the body in the air on poles. The whites were obliged to bury his body again at a great depth, and cover the grave with stones to prevent further desecration.

IT NEEDED A PURIFIER.

St. Paul, Minn., June 13.—A heavy rain with some hail fell here last night, but how general it was is not known. Hail at Worthington, Minn., did considerable damage to-day. At Mandan, N. D., and for over 100 miles west of there heavy rains, in some cases amounting almost to a cloudburst, fell Saturday. Several hundred sheep were drowned and all trains were delayed several hours by washouts.

LABOR TROUBLES.

Railroad Men in the East Preparing to Go Out.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 13.—There is likely to be trouble between the Lehigh Valley road and its switchmen. On May 21 a cut in the wages of switchmen took effect which reduced salaries between $5 and $6 a month.

Grand Master Sweeney of the switchmen's brotherhood, was summoned and arrived yesterday. He held a conference with the officers of the local lodge and will endeavor to reach an amicable settlement.

The men say they will use arbitration as far as possible, but if a settlement cannot be reached by that means a strike will surely follow.

A similar cut took effect on the West Shore and New York Central on June 1 and the switchmen on these roads are also disaffected.

Seven-eighths of all the lobsters caught on the Atlantic coast of the United States are taken in Maine waters, the shores of New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Long Island furnishing the rest. Some fine lobsters are taken off Nantucket, Martha's Vineyard, the Isles of Shoals and Cape Ann, but most of the catch west of Maine consists of small and inferior fish, which are fast disappearing on account of the great demand and consequent overfishing.

HEALTHY. HAPPY, WHY?

Is he a bright child? Does he look healthy and happy? He is bright, and he is both healthy and happy. He is the little son of Mrs. Henry T. Bowers, wife of the well-known contractor and builder, who resides in Dorchester avenue, South Boston. Mrs. Bowers has had quite an experience with her children, which experience we give in her own words, as follows:

"I have a little boy two and one-half years of age, the perfect picture of rugged health, and also a little girl of four. I attribute their good health and good temper to the use of Dr. Hand's Remedies.

I have used, as occasion required, the entire line, and have had very marked results from the Colic Cure, Cough and Croup Medicine, and the Pleasant Physic. I have never had any but good result from the use of any of them."

No mother would make a statement like the above unless she knew wholly whereof she affirmed.

TWO STORY BOOKS

By the Blind Author, Mary J. Salter, Who Is in Toledo.

A pleasant-faced young lady, accompanied by a young girl, came into the Bee office Saturday with two neat books, in paper covers. One is an interesting and well-written novelette: the other a volume of short stories of varied and pleasing character. The first is entitled, "A Friend in Need:" the other, "All that Glitters Is Not Gold." Aside from their literary merit unusual interest attaches to the work from the fact that the author, who sells them, has been blind from the age of 22. She suffered sunstroke one dreadfully hot day when sailing in an open boat, and when she was restored her sight was gone forever. She learned to read by the method for the blind, and continued the literary vocation upon which she had entered. Her stories are sketched from real life, and bear no marks of the novice. She has written one pouplar story, "The Lost Receipt," and is engaged upon an expensive work of 300 pages, entitled "The Day Before the Battle, or True to the Charge." The Bee bespeaks for Miss Salter a liberal patronage.

DEATH CLAIMED HER.

Demise of a Lovely Woman—Toledo Friends Sympathise.

The many Toledo friends of Mr. H. B. Taylor, a former prominent resident of this city, but now of Quanah, Texas, were saddened by the intelligence of the death of his beautiful and talented young wife, who succumbed to that dread disease, consumption, at the home of her mother, Mrs. Margaret Lime, at Upper Sandusky, on Friday morning, June 10. Just one month previous, she had come from her far away home, hoping that old scenes and old faces, and a mother's care would restore her health, but the fatal disease could not be arrested, and she sank peacefully into the sleep that knows no waking.

Mrs. Taylor possessed a beautiful soprano voice and had studied music under some of the best instructors. Her pleasing presence and kind heart won her many friends, who mourn with the bereaved husband.

The funeral services were held at the M. E. church, Upper Sandusky, Sunday afternoon, the services being conducted by Rev. G. B. Wiltsie.

DISTRICT CONFERENCE

Will Open This Evening at Weston and Continue Over Wednesday.

The semi-annual session of the Toledo District M. E. conference will convene this evening at Weston. An interesting program has been prepared, and it is expected there will be a good attendance of ministers and laymen. At 7:30 to-night a prayer and praise service will be led by Rev. J. W. Donnan, following which Rev. D. F. Helms, of Wauseon, will preach the sermon. To-morrow at 8:30 a. m. devotional exercises are to be conducted by Rev. A. Hopkins, of Sylvania. The rest of the program for the day is:

Scriptural View of Satan—I. Newton, D. D., Delta; Personal Religious Experience—Its Reality, R. E. Woodruff, Liberty Center; Its Necessity, N. S. Brackney, West Toledo; Christianity and National Politics, S. D. Hutsinpiller, St. Paul's, Toledo; The General Conference and Its Work, P. P. Pope, Toledo; Christianity and International Disputes, A. J. Fish, D. D., Toledo; Brief Sermon Outlines, W. A. Winter, H. D. Grindle, F. K. Gamble, W. S. Brackney, L. E. Linzell, D. H. Jameson. In the evening Rev. R. W. Munson and wife will deliver missionary addresses.

PRESIDENT HOPKINS,

Of the T. U. T. A., Defines the Objects of the Body, and Makes an Appeal.

The Bee is in receipt of the following from Rev. W. C. Hopkins, which speaks for itself:

Temperance work often fails from the lack of union. The (T. U. T. A.) Toledo Union Temperance association, lately organized, will prove to be a federation of all the churches, temperance societies and moral reform societies, irrespective of any special theories or plans, doctrines or creeds, and enable all to unite in simple temperance work, just as soon as three representatives are elected or appointed from every such society, as provided by the rules. Any temperance worker, whether representative or not, can also join the union. The T. U. T. A. is to all the other religious and moral reform societies what the Central Labor union is to all the labor societies represented in it. And when in full operation, it will be able to voice temperance sentiment with a power utterly beyond the reach of the segregated independent associations. Let representatives be at once appointed, and let all friends of the cause attend the next meeting at the Davis Business college, June 15, Wednesday, 8 p. m., sharp.

POLITICAL EQUALITY CLUB.

A "Banner" Meeting Held Saturday Afternoon.

The torrid weather did not prevent a large number of the members of this young and growing club from gathering in the parlors of Mrs. E. Quigley, Saturday afternoon, the occasion being the fortnightly meeting of the club. The program consisted of reports from the Salem convention, and good ones they were, a discussion of the late republican convention, and the part taken in it by women, and as to whether practical political work is the way to achieve best results in the temperance field. The question called out an animated discussion, and a majority of the members were of the opinion that the ballot in the hands of women will be the death blow to the liquor traffic. After the meeting had adjourned and the ladies were preparing to go home, the hostess announced that she wished to make an addition to the regular program. The "addition" proved to be ice cream and cake, and a more delightful and delicious addition could not have been made. Dainty Japanese souvenirs were distributed, on which were:

"Equality Before the Law."
Let those laugh who will about it,
All their laughter is but sound;
Let who will pretend to doubt it,
Still the cause is gaining ground.

Ohio at Minneapolis.

It was a situation of politics to witness but a spectacle of which no description can do full justice. The Ohio man was a numerous quantity in Minneapolis last week and to the casual observer the best nature prevailed and scheming was furthest from the thoughts of all. In reality the most politics, of several kinds, was in the Ohio delegation. There were Harrison delegates, and Blaine delegates, and one McKinley delegate, and anything-to-beat-Harrison delegates. The compounding of these dissimilar elements required a master political pharmacist. He was there, Foraker, the very Mephistopholes of Ohio republicanism.

There were enough Ohioans in Minneapolis to more than fill the large headquarters that were elegantly provided in the West Hotel. An analysis of the situation showed that every Harrison delegate was coached by several office holders and friends of the administration. They were afraid some of them would get away. The delegates couldn't be trusted upon honor. Two postmasters watched the movements of delegate Wilson, of the Toledo district, and Collector Waldorf was especially commissioned to sleep with delegate Tucker to see that his vote was delivered to Harrison. The officiousness of the office holders in the Ohio delegation was disgusting, though on the surface all was serene.

The four varieties of delegates made a queer looking bouquet. Twenty-seven were supposed to represent Harrison and nineteen were for Blaine. In reality, twenty-six were for Harrison, one for McKinley, and nineteen for anybody to defeat the administration.

The one delegate who really and earnestly was for McKinley, (though sugar-coated with outward loyalty to Harrison) was McKinley himself. The Governor thought his time had come. He posed for the nomination; he presided in the convention for the nomination; he made no positive rulings, lest offense might be given; he held an informal reception for the nomination; his friends on the outside encouraged his nomination, and through and for all, to every intent and purpose, Wm. McKinley was more of a candidate from start to finish than was Jim Blaine.

From this very situation Mr. Foraker saw his opportunity to square accounts with Harrison, Sherman, Foster and McKinley, and he did it most adroitly and successfully. He talked for Blaine and to the crowds he was a Blaine leader, but when the Blaine following realized that their idol was no longer in favor he used the slyest, the most devilish sly, methods of convincing the Harrison contingent that loyalty and state pride demanded the presentation of McKinley's name to the convention by a solid vote. McKinley was familiar with the movement and consented, and into the trap every Harrison delegate tumbled and the office holders couldn't pull them back.

Pursuing his methodical plan further, Mr. Foraker announced the vote in the convention in manner which made McKinley, who outwardly was for Harrison, demand the poll of the Ohio delegation. Thereupon every Ohio delegate publicly announced his preference, and forty-five went on record against Harrison. That was the culmination of masterly Foraker politics. Big and little, Tucker and all, the whole job lot, including the office holders, were dumped by the skillful leader of the Blaine forces.

The office holders discovered the stampede too late. Ohio alone made a fool of itself in convention. The attempt to deliver Pennsylvania to the Ohio boom reacted and Harrison's vote doubled. Other states resisted the importunity also, and the Ohio contingent, headed by McKinley, who lost his head, fell down, too late to get up and recede from the ridiculous position into which the opposition had placed them.

It was a Foraker victory. He bested Harrison and Sherman in one round. He humiliated Foster and disgraced McKinley by one convention vote. It was the success of a politician too shrewd for the office holders, who will now have a sorry time explaining how it was done.

Here in Toledo, Tucker's name is Dennis, and Jim Brown, Dave Austin and Waldorf will be unable to square themselves with the Washington bosses. They may as well pack their grip sacks and seek private jobs. They are flat-headed failures in running district politics at a national convention.

What is true of the Toledo district is true of every district in Ohio. Foraker used McKinley's untimely ambition to sandbag the whole lot. It was a spectacle to be seen once in a life time, and its repetition will hardly be recorded. The Ohio Harrison men in Minneapolis were a set of chumps.

The indorsement of Mr. Harrison means the indorsement of the force bill, which is not dead but sleeping, and of the control of the government by the monopolists. Twenty-five years of tariff for the benefit of the country has given the control of the world's markets, home market and all, to a class of favored industries. In the meantime labor has organized to defend itself against the injustice of class legislation and agriculture is a mortgaged and bankrupted business in the most fertile states in the union. The small farms are decreasing in number with alarming rapidity, as shown by the Porter census; railroad companies, lumber barons and home and foreign syndicates are possessing themselves of the earth in Uncle Sam's fair dominions. And yet the advocates of an increased tariff have the hardihood to preach to the wealth producers, what great things tax legislation "is going to do" for them. Why it has failed to benefit them during a quarter of a century's fair trial, is not explained.

The post-convention speeches are more amusing than anything that has yet been evolved from the situation. Mr. Chauncey Depew gives promise that Platt, Clarkson, Quay et al., will work and vote for Harrison. Assurances from these gentlemen themselves would be a little more assuring. These majestic leaders sometimes mistake in their calculations. They assume that the plain people with the ballot can be "rounded up" at their will. There is something more for Mr. Depew's party to do than to get the wire-pullers at work for the nominee. The Harrison faction has posed rather piously, that these statesmen, in bad odor for cause, were not the president's supporters. That he tried to win them and failed, is not mentioned; but that they are needed now and will come up to the rack, Mr. Dejew promises for them. Doubtless the crow will go down as it has done before, but that it will be easy of mastication, and that herculean efforts will not be needed to make it go, is absurd.

Comparisons of press reports of the national republican convention accord the highest praise to the work of the United Press. In every particular the service was ahead of the old associated press, which attempted to be heavy, but which in reality was logy and fossilized. The United Press was first upon the wires, both for evening and morning papers, and everything sent out from Minneapolis was good news. The work was conducted under the personal supervision of the General Manager, Mr. W. P. Phillips, and his labors were ably supplemented by Mr. P. V. DeGraw, General Southern Manager, and by Mr. Henry M. Hunt, the indefatigable news gatherer, of Chicago. The United Press is not only the leading press association of this country, but is the best in the world. It is full of life and vigor and is always at the front.

Wyoming is small, too small for statehood, but she is plucky and independent. The citizens have held mass meetings in all the principal towns, and respectfully ask congress why United States troops are ordered out, and why federal deputy marshals are lording it around in Wyoming, before the state militia has been given opportunity to show if it is equal to the task of taking care of the interests of its citizens. The presence of United States soldiers and marshals is stagnating business, and they call attention to the fact that Wyoming has rights as a state. And yet Wyoming goes for the party that believes in controlling elections in the states with the musket and bayonet of the federal soldiery. Experience teaches a good many useful lessons.

Gov. McKinley said, "with the close of the convention every shade of bitterness was effaced." The Governor does not mean this seriously. He is dissembling. The assortment of human nature assembled at Minneapolis was not of the forgiving kind, and the disappointed ones at home are feeling and expressing a good many shades of bitterness. In Toledo, republicans, six to one, when they can be induced to give an opinion, say, "the machine nominated, but the machine cannot elect." The sentiments of Col. Conger are pretty well echoed throughout the state.

Now let the plain people rejoice; the party bosses tell them that with Harrison's nomination "the business interests of the country are safe," which means that trusts and monopolies will be protected and the burden bearers can plod on thankful that, in comparison with the paupers of Europe, they are pretty well off.

The republican candidate can go snipe shooting for all of being bothered about receiving and replying to telegrams of congratulation.

"Harrison had no organization to speak of and none of these great party leaders" (meaning the Blaine lieutenants). Modest Mister Depew, truthful Mister Depew!

CHOLERA RAGING.

London, June 13.—Dispatches from Calcutta say that the cholera is raging with increased mortality in Afghanistan. There is no hope of stopping its progress as the sanitary condition of the country is the worst possible.

CURRENT COMMENT.

The unity of the democratic party in favor of the nomination of Grover Cleveland is in refreshing contrast to the ugly Blaine-Harrison split in the republican ranks. With that unity preserved, victory is ours.—Atlanta Journal.

To maintain that Harrison is stronger now among the voters of the republican party than he was in 1888 would be to maintain that the expectation of getting nothing is a stronger inducement to work than the expectation of getting everything.—New York World.

All the praying for wisdom at Minneapolis resulted in the selection of a foe to American labor for vice president. The democrats at Chicago should learn from this lesson and select men who can do more effectual praying than was done at Minneapolis.—St. Louis Republic.

The platform adopted by the republicans at Minneapolis is a sweeping dragnet of glittering generalities. Everything within the range of political disputation is brought into it, most of them in a perfunctory way, and some sort of indefinite promise given to enable the republican leaders to deal with all shades of all questions.—Philadelphia Times.

In their renomination of President Harrison and in the letter and spirit of their platform the republicans have elected to fight over again the battle of 1890, in which they were so signally worsted, by making the McKinley tariff and the force bill their foremost issues in the campaign. Mr. Harrison was the advocate and supporter of both measures. Democrats who have faith in the principles of their party, and who are democrats because of that faith, have no occasion to regret the turn the contest has taken.—Baltimore Sun.

Great complaint has been made by the Blaine organs over the large number of officeholders from the south acting as delegates for Harrison at the Minneapolis convention. Whom else would Mr. Harrison's friends have selected to support him in the southern states, in which the republican party has no existence outside of official circles? The officials, at least, are held to their loyalty by considerations of personal interest, while non-officials, looking to the political future, would have fallen an easy prey to the wiles of the Blaine manipulators. Hence the tears over Harrison's officeholders from the south by Platt, Clarkson and other devoted friends of civil service reform at Minneapolis.—Philadelphia Record.

The longer one ponders over the action of the Minneapolis convention, the more apparent does it become that a grave political mistake was committed in throwing overboard and consigning to private life James G. Blaine. To the majority of republicans throughout the country, especially the young men of the party, he has been an embodiment of the policy pronounced in successive platforms, and though suffering defeat as a presidential candidate it was felt by those who managed his last campaign that he was again entitled to head their column. Instead of this, however, they were routed on the first ballot, and heard the death-knell of the Maine man in American politics.—New York News.

ONE CAME UNTO THEM

Saying This Thing That is, is Not

And They Heard and Were Convinced and the Base Ball Jury Lost Its Penny's Worth of Justice in the Shuffle.

And it came to pass in the spring of the second year of the reign of Ehmmich there gathered a mighty multitude.

And they were of all kinds and classes, and they came and sat and marveled where at they looked.

And their raiment was newly cleansed for it was the Sabbath and the day rest.

And lo and behold as they watched there came other men, and they were of another people, for their garments were but to the knee, and they brought with them balls and bats and many other things wherewith to disport themselves. And they did play, and he who standeth in the box did chucketh them quite merrily to him whose place was behind the bat, and they spat upon their hands and hitteth the ball to Jereco and skinned the bases, yea, even to the fourth and fifth time, whereat the multitude howled and there was great rejoicing on the grand stand, and also on the bleachers and among those who were gathered on foot.

And it came to pass that this being the Sabbath day, the law of the land cried out against this game, and there came men in garments of blue, and they spoke unto the players saying:

"Whereof ye are indulging is against the law of the land, cry ye not out for ye are collared, and whatsoever ye doeth ye doeth not this."

Then came there a great prophet, whose mind was as the wind of the tempest and they called him Bi and Ritchie was his sire's name, and he lifted his voice unto Gunnels et al., saying:

"This crime whereof ye are charged ye have not committed. Although ye have done this thing, ye have not done so and for a stipend I will prove that this thing that is, is not."

Then when the day arrived when justice sat upon these men there was a great mingling of rejoicings and wailings, and those who said that this thing should be were of a great number and those who differed were likewise a mighty throng.

And the jurors were called and Bi, the prophet, didst eye them well, and if they did wink unto him that they were of the right kind he said naught unto them, but if they spake, as did one Price, saying, "O Judge, I have had this thing in my mind and I liketh not the things these players do and a card have I also signed and sent to the chief wherein I have said this much," then did Bi exclaim, this man is excused. And so on did they proceed until there came unto the box a dozen of the people who held justice in their hands and the words of truth were written on their brows, and they swore before the tribunal that whatsoever they did would be according to the law and the evidence, but lo and behold they swore not truly, for when they had retired they spat upon the evidence as a thing unclean and would know it not, and they spake unto each other saying, "to Hades with the law, we are here for justice. These men have done no wrong thing. Hath not this Bi told us this and does he not know? Would he spake unto us falsely? Hath he not built us a bridge for us to cross," and so on continued they until the time when they re-entered the court with their justice done up in a bundle of exceeding small proportions and opened it up before the tribunal saying:

"Thus have we weighed this matter and we cry out unto you that these men have not done this thing that 4,000 people saw them do. We are the jury; we are sworn to the truth, and thus we speak with great weight, for although the multitude saw the game, we tell thee, O Judge, that these people saw something that happened not. We cannot tell you why this is or how we reached this conclusion, but such an one it is and such an one it shall remain. Selah. We have said it."

Whereupon the court wrote in the book "not guilty," and justice kicked herself and swore a little swear because of the fact she was blindfolded.

The multitude sang in one voice, thus are our laws upheld, the right of citizenship respected and justice meted out. We are the people and Bi is right, for the jury hath said so.

Here endeth the second lesson.

DETROIT'S LATCH STRING

Did Not Hang Out Very Far.

The Toledo Trinity Cadets are Offered a Bed on the Church Floor and Finally Told to Go Home.

For some reason or other the visit of the Trinity Cadets to Detroit was not the success that had been anticipated.

The boys left here Saturday morning on an invitation from Rev. Dr. Pratt, of St. John's church, Detroit, and expected to remain over Sunday. They came home, however, about 1 o'clock Sunday morning and spent the night at their armory in the parish buildings.

Most of the boys desired to remain in Detroit, but Rev. Dr. Pratt told them in unmistakably plain language that they must go home.

It was a most unfortunate termination to a most happily planned trip, and the Toledoans interested regret very much the manner in which it was drawn to a close.

The Detroit people, it seems, could not secure accommodations for the 30 visitors, and gave evidence of their heart-whole hospitality by offering to allow the Toledo boys to sleep on the church floor.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

Of the Ohio Knights of Honor.

Opening Session at Odd Fellows' Temple To-morrow Morning—The Business Will be Principally Routine.

The annual convention of the Knights of Honor will open to-morrow morning at Odd Fellows' temple. The business of the morning session will be the conferring of the third degree, past dictators being those eligible.

Election of officers will occur in the afternoon. In the evening the regular meeting of the local lodge will be held.

On Wednesday routine business will be transacted, and reports received. A large number of delegates are expected to be present and they will be entertained at Hotel Madison. The committee on arrangements are: Messrs. Geo. Allen, Henry Nellis, E. W. Rakestraw, O. A. Winfred and Joseph Lamb. These gentlemen have spared no pains to make the convention successful, and prospects are bright for a good attendance and good time.

About twenty-five visiting knights arrived in the city this afternoon, and paid a visit to the Bee office. They were greatly pleased with the new type-setting machines. The arrivals are mostly officers of the grand lodge.

SIDNEY DILLON'S FUNERAL.

New York, June 13.—The funeral of Sidney Dillon was held this morning at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church. The services were simple and impressive. The interment was in Woodlawn cemetery.

Prominent among those present were Whitelaw Reid, Samuel Sloane, Andrew H. Greene, John Sloane, A. E. Orr and H. A. Hurlbut.

RULING WOULD NOT GO.

New Bedford, Mass., June 13.—Ray Greene Ruling, editor of the School and College, and principal of the New Bedford High school, has declined President Harper's offer of $4,000 to go to Chicago University and also a proposition from the Morgan Park academy.

RALLYING AROUND BEN.

Office Holders Know When They Strike a Snap.

Washington, June 11.—The president was busy all day receiving callers who came to extend congratulations.

At 1 o'clock he shook hands with a crowd of 300 people which had assembled in the east room of the executive mansion.

Telegrams of congratulation continued to pour in upon the president.

Among those received this morning are messages from William Seligman, Paris; Mr. Carnegie, Paris; Senator Stanford, S. D. H. Hastings, Killarney, Ireland; Minister Coolidge, Paris; ex-Senator Spooner, Henry C. Bowen, ex-Gov. Routt, Denver; John A. Gear, Iowa; S. V. R. Cruger, Senator Cullom, ex-Senator Clayton, Frederick Roble, Maine; Senator McPherson, New Jersey; H. Grant Miller, Pittsburg, Pa., and from the republicans of Holyoke, Mass.

One from Fred N. Dowe, of Portland, Me., read: "The Portland club, of which James G. Blaine and Thomas B. Reed are members, at 6 o'clock this morning threw out a campaign banner bearing the names of Harrison and Reid."

Telegrams were also received from C. C. Shayne, London, F. M. Thompson, Hot Springs, Ark., and Gen. Schofield.

AFTER TUCKER.

The Local Harrison Men Want His Scalp.

He Went Back on His Instructions—Was McKinley in the Deal to Defeat Harrison?

Local Foraker men claim that McKinley was in the deal to defeat Harrison and that it was with his knowledge and consent that the Ohio delegation flopped.

"You can brand it as a lie," Collector G. P. Waldorf said this morning, warmly. "There is nothing in it. Mr. Foraker stampeded the delegation just before the vote was taken on the floor of the convention. I know from personal knowledge that Gov. McKinley was honest in his advocacy."

"How do you explain Mr. Tucker's position?"

"I don't and can't explain it. He told me the night preceding the day of nomination that he would vote for Harrison. He pulled out the instructions given him, and said he would abide by them."

The fedreal officials all say Mr. Tucker is a dead duck politically. He voted with the Blaine crowd from the beginning. Wilson stood loyal until the last moment, when he went over when Foraker stampeded the Ohio delegation.

Mr. Tucker's friends say Waldorf and Brown are running the local administration machine and they are going to have a pretty tough time in giving a favorable report of their stewardship.

ENFORCE THE LAWS.

Talk With Col. Smead on Sunday Base Ball.

Col. Isaac D. Smead Speaking With a Bee This Morning said Anent the Subject of Sunday Base Ball.

"No, I have not signed the postal card requesting city officials to stop base ball playing on Sunday. While I do not believe in open saloons on Sunday, or Sunday base ball playing, I am opposed to the idea of petitioning officers to do their duty; nor do I propose to tell them what their duty is; the statutes and city ordinances do that; the officers have no choice in the matter. It is not their business to be guided by the opinions of anybody.

"I never saw a game of base ball, and do not know much about it: but of many things that are done on Sunday, it seems to me to be the least harmful.

"If I were mayor or chief of police, I would simply execute the law as it reads; I should not be guided by the opinions of anybody. If the law permits open saloons on Sunday, I should see that they were orderly; if the law says they must be closed, you can bet your last dollar they would be closed: and the same is true regarding base ball.

e same isbhe wtl,.fe,.admandvoSa-be'en'

"The mayor and other officials are not law makers; their duty is simply to execute the law. If they do not properly do that, I should not say 'please do' or 'please do not' to any of them; they have not the right of choice.

"If the laws are not satisfactory to the people, they can be changed, provided the majority want them changed.

"I am opposed to whining around officials and begging them to execute the laws. They have been sworn to do that; if they don't do it they ought to have their official heads taken off."

DEATH THE PENALTY

Of Disturbing Ferdinand Gilman's Slumbers.

John Caufman Was Shot at an Early Hour Yesterday Morning and Dies From His Injuries.

At a very early hour yesterday morning John Caufman and several other boys, between 18 and 20 years of age, called at the residence of Ferdinand Gilman, Nebraska avenue, and, it is alleged, created a disturbance.

Mr. Gilman awoke, and arising came out and expostulated with the boys without effect. Words led to a scuffle and young Caufman jumped on Gilman who had a revolver in his hand, that he had intended to shoot into the air to scare the boys away.

In some way a shot was fired, taking effect in Caufman's stomach. Officer Coakley heard the shot and hurried to the scene. Gilman said he had fired in self-defense.

He was placed under arrest, and the injured boy was taken to his home, 750 Hamilton street. His father would not admit him, however, and he was removed to St. Vincent's, where he died yesterday afternoon.

It was a very unfortunate affair. Mr. Gilman bears an excellent reputation, and those who know him say that the trouble was no fault of his. He was taken to the police station and at noon was released on $3,000 bail.

The inquest will be held at the police station this afternoon. Mr. Gilman has nine witnesses who will swear to his innocence. One of these is the Rev. Myer, who resides across the street, and saw the affair.

THE NEW OPERA HOUSE.

It is Certainly Needed in This City.

Jerry Dewey Says He is Meeting With Much Success in His Undertaking.

The prospects of a new opera house for Toledo in the near future are exceedingly flattering.

Mr. Jerry Dewey, of Cleveland, who has the project in charge, is in the city to-day, and in conversation with a Bee on the subject, said:

"There has been $25,000 subscribed, and I am in town to-day to meet people who have agreed to take about 10 shares. I feel certain that the [illegible] is a go, and that we will get at it [illegible] fall."

JUDICIAL CONVENTION.

DESTITUTE ALIENS.

London, June 13.—Home Secretary Matthews said in the house of commons to-day, that he was unable to name a date when the bill to prevent the immigration of destitute aliens would be introduced. It was undeniable, he said, that the evils connected with such immigration were increasing.

WENT DOWN IN A FOG.

Two Steamers Collide on Lake Michigan.

One of Them Goes Down in Three Minutes.

Vessel Passages Through the Straits and Rivers—Marine News of General Interest.

Milwaukee, June 13.—The steamers Douglas and A. E. Wilds came together with a terrific crash 18 miles off this port in a dense fog last night, and the Wilds went to the bottom in three minutes.

Her crew were taken off by the Douglas, which reached here this morning.

The Wilds was bound from Chicago to Escanaba, and the Douglas was from Milwaukee to Saugatuck.

The sunken boat was owned by A. E. Wilds, who also sailed her. She was valued at $25,000 and was insured for $18,000 with the London Assurance, St. Paul and North American.

Labor Troubles.

Tonawanda, N. Y., June 13.—The air was full of war talk here this morning. The striking dock laborers held a secret meeting at their hall, fully 600 men being present. They say they will resist any attempt to fill their places.

The mills have been closed and the propresent. They say they will resist any atwork on the barges under protection. The few stevedores who went to work this morning carried guns with them.

The sheriff and police are making more arrests of rioters to-day. The Twenty-fifth company of militia are in the armory under arms and ready for any emergency. The state board of arbitration is expected here to-day.

Cleveland.

Cleveland, June 13.—Dispatches from Duluth offer 2 3-4 cents wheat to Buffalo and feeling in freights is generally stronger, although single charter at 70 from Escanaba on Saturday was a "scratch;" that figure could very probably be secured to-day, if there was any tonnage offered. Coal for head of Lake Superior is not plentiful at 45 cents, but 60 is offered to Chicago, and brokers are trying to advance Milwaukee rate to same figure.

Buffalo.

Buffalo, June 13.—Coal freights opened firm and active this morning. Charters: Plankinton, Frank Vance, Barnum, Chicago, 60 cents; Baldwin, Carpenter, Racine, 60 cents; Putnam, Manitowoc, 65 cents; Davis, East Saginaw, 40 cents.

DROWNED AT BANTRY BAY.

Sad Accident to a Gentleman and His Daughter.

London, June 13.—A sad accident is reported from Bantry bay, in the southwest of Ireland. Frederick Waller, a magistrate of the vicinity, who was also a gentleman of considerable landed estate, was out yachting with his daughter, Jena.

The day was pleasant and the waters of the bay only rippled by a slight breeze. Suddenly one of the squalls so frequent in that neighborhood sprang up, and the yacht instantly capsized.

Mr. Waller, who is a good swimmer, came quickly to the surface, but his daughter was nowhere to be seen. He was seen to dive repeatedly, evidently with the object of rescuing her, and, although he could easily have saved himself by swimming, he continued to dive in his vain search until he was utterly exhausted and he himself sank not to come up again. When the rescuers arrived both father and daughter were drowned. Upon righting the yacht the girl's body was discovered entangled in the rigging.

TOLEDO BOY WINS

The Great Running Race at Travers' Island.

Young Wagner Swayne Develops Into a Phenomenon and Does Up Jewett, the Great Sprinter.

Wagner Swayne, jr., a Toledo boy and a nephew of Messrs. N. H. and F. B. Swayne, of this city, has developed into a phenomenal sprinter. Relative to the great running race at Travers' Island, N. Y., Saturday, a special dispatch says:

Harry Jewett did his first hard running of the season at Travers' Island, and a fine crowd of 5,000 persons looked on. Harry won the 100 yards without much trouble, but in the 220 he encountered a large obstacle in the person of Swayne, the Yale phenomenon, who won the sprints for the blue at the inter-collegiate games.

Swayne was gobbled by the New York Athletic club as soon as he showed how he could throw his feet, and he was expected to win both events in the games. He arrived at Traver's island too late to participate in the 100, but he was all ready to start in the 200. In the 100 yards dash Jewett came out in the second heat and George Schwegler, the hurdler, gave the Detroiter a hard rub, the latter winning by a foot in 10 3-5. W. H. Heaton and M. P. Halpin, both N. Y. A. C. men, were first and second in the other trial heat, and Jewitt, Schwegler, Heaton and Halpin came together in the final. Jewett showed better form in this run. He got off the mark first, took a lead and held it to the finish, winning by two yards in the good time of 10 1-5 seconds. Schwegler beat Heaton for second honors by a foot. The handsome Detroiter was heartily applauded for his good work.

When the first trial heat of 220 was called Swayne appeared. He won in a walk in 23 3-5, Halpin second. Jewett also had an easy time in his trail heat, winning in 23 3-5 seconds from Heaton and Ryan. Jewett finished first by eight yards. When Jewett and Swayne got on the mark for the final struggle the spectators became much excited. Jewett got away first and immediately jumped to the lead. Swayne came after him like a derby winner and at half the distance was at his shoulder. In this way they continued till ten yards from the tape, when Jewett seemed to weaken. He lost his stride and Swayne went ahead and finished first by a yard. Jewett was second and Halpin third.

BULLET PROOF BURGLARS.

Base Ball Catchers' Protectors Used for an Entirely New Purpose.

San Francisco, June 13.—No clue has been found as to the identity of the two men who so boldly robbed Secretary Gilson, of the Judson Manufacturing company, on the Berkeley train yesterday.

The robbers got away with $15,000 in gold and silver coin. The buggy in which they drove away after committing the robbery has been found. In it were two breast plates made of boiler iron formed to fit over the breast, and two inflated rubber bags such as base ball catchers wear to protect the abdomen.

The robbers were thus made bullet-proof in front, and as they backed out of the car after getting the coin no shots could have taken effect upon them. In the buggy were also found the clothes which the men wore on the train. They had been hurriedly ripped off with a sharp knife.

The largest cotton crop in the southern states prior to the war was in 1860, when 4,699,770 bales were produced. In 1871 it was 4,352,317 bales. In 1891 the production reached 8,652,597 bales, and 605,661 bales of the production were consumed in southern mills.

ENDED HIS SUFFERINGS.

Dr. Isaac Terry Blows Out His Brains in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, June 13.—Rather than live afflicted with a disease, which he knew was incurable and entailed long suffering, Dr. Isaac C. Terry, a well-known physician, blew his brains out this morning.

Dr. Terry was 56 years old and resided alone with his aged colored servant. The servant went up to the second story front room occupied by the physician this morning to notify him that his breakfast was ready. No sooner had he left the room and reached the bottom of the stairs than he heard a pistol shot, and running back found the physician lying on the bed with blood oozing from his mouth. Dr. Terry had taken a revolver, which he kept in his room and placing the barrel in his mouth pulled the trigger. Death was almost instantaneous.

AN OLD STORY.

Sweetheart, there was a happy time—
How far it seems away—
When love was like a merry chime,
And every month was May.
Your voice betrayed an under-thrill
As oft your love you told:
That tender thrill
Hath now grown still;
Your vows of love ring cold,
Sweetheart,
You love not as of old.

I read your heart within your eyes,
I saw my image there;
And every joy that mortals prize
You kept with me to share.
You strove with glowing words to trace
The splendors you had seen:
'Tis flown apace,
That glow of face—
You wear an altered mien,
Sweetheart,—
Hath some one come between?

Is there a face hath grown more sweet,
A voice more dear than mine?
A step that makes your pulses fleet,
Your blood to run like wine?
Tack back the vows you gave of old;
I scorn to use one art
A heart to hold
Whose love is cold:
'Tis best for us to part,
Sweetheart,
E'en though it break my heart.

A firm of London opticians is making a good thing out of horse spectacles, which, being raised, give the ground the effect of being raised, and make the horse step high, thinking he is going up hill.

The Duke Charles Theodore, brother of the Empress of Austria, is an accomplished oculist and amuses himself by gratuitously mending the peepers of everybody around his home on the Tegernsee.

An important invention has been made in the adaptation of magnetic electricity to the prevention of the slipping of car wheels. The use of it is said to increase the hauling power of an engine many per cent.

Sir Henry Bessemer's proposal to introduce aluminum tokens in place of the suggested £1 English notes does not seem to have met with the favor that has been accorded a scheme to use the same metal in place of the heavier iron-work of cavalry saddles.

The Marquis of Dufferin, Britain's new ambassador at Paris, has a collection of water-colors painted by himself on view there, and the marchioness lately charmed everybody by her bright and spirited acting in "A Happy Pair" at the Austrian embassy in Rome.

A new industry has been invented by a clever girl. She calls herself an accountant and auditor for large households. She finds plenty of employment in looking after the business of a few families of large expenditure, whose heads have not taste for the work.

A French technical journal recommends the use of coal tar for water-proofing masonry. A small amount of India rubber dissolved by benzine will increase its durability. It should be applied boiling hot, and if the color should be objectionable it can be dusted with plaster of paris before drying.

There were on British pastures last year nearly 29,000,000 sheep and lambs, showing an advance of nearly a million and a half over the number in 1890. Our total sheep stock last year, moreover, exceeded by 3,000,000 head the flocks of two years ago, and by more than 4,000,000 the flocks of 1891.

An ox train is now operating in competition with the Mexican International between Piedras Negras and Santa Rosa. A considerable amount of lumber is being transported in this primitive manner, and while the ox teams are a little slow, they get there just the same, and it is claimed, for considerable less money.

In Paris, male domestic servants are encouraged to marry, as they are observed to be more settled and attentive to their duty than when bachelors. In London such marriages are discouraged as rendering servants more attentive to their own families than to those of their masters.

A diamond expert in London thus discourses on the product and distribution of diamonds: "The Americans are the finest judges of diamonds in the world, and insist upon having the finest stones and the most perfect cutting. It is estimated that they will take £3,000,000 worth this year.

The work of installing the Jewish immigrants in the Argentine Republic is being actively carried on. A branch railway has been constructed to what is known as the Mauricie Colony, where the Hebrews are being established, and 200 families are already comfortably settled and engaged in the cultivation of the soil.

It is proposed to cover the surface of the sea around an endangered vessel with a thin cotton or silken net, rendered unsubmersible and ever floating by means of being dipped in a special chemical preparation. The idea is due to the fact that, when crossing the track of the Gulf Stream, it has been noticed that the vast spreading fields of floating seaweed within the confines of the stream, though upheaved by the swell, remain glossy and smooth. The net acts in the same manner as the seaweed.

In the winter in Norway all the vehicles are sledges—the carriages, cabs, carts and even the perambulators are on runners. Outside the town, where the road is not trodden hard, it is impossible to walk without the snowshoes of the country. These are called "ski," and are long wooden planks, measuring nearly nine feet for a fully-grown man. They are three-fourths of an inch thick and about four inches wide, slightly raised at the toes, and pointed off like the shoes of Chaucer's day. The wood for ski is not sawn, but split with the grain, so that they never break, and can bear a tremendous strain.

A GIRL ENGINEER.

Old Ben Clark had been a good engineer at one time, but that time was long since past. Ben had a fondness for the flowing bowl that had been his downfall. He had been put down from the fast mail to a passenger run, and finally had to go hauling freight. When he was sober there wasn't a better or more careful man on the road, but when he wasn't—which was most of the time—his fireman had to watch him pretty closely. It was no uncommon thing to see old Ben with No. 48 come in with the engineer scarcely able to keep his seat, and with his daugter, a girl of seventeen who knew more about an engine than half the men on the road, handling air and throttle like an old engineer.

This motherless girl was a universal favorite among the employes, and Ben's shortcomings were not so severely dealt with as they would have been otherwise. She was known as Blazes on account of her fiery temper.

Many of the trainmen, most of them in fact, had fallen in love with Blazes, for while she was not by any means handsome, there was a charm in her wild, hot temper, and she had the brightest and blackest pair of eyes in the country around. Blazes, however, didn't seem to have much use for the men. Her experience with the sex, as far as her parent was concerned, was such that she thought that she was able to take care of herself about as well as any man could care for her. With one exception.

Dave Gilchrist ran passenger No. 5 out of Como and there wasn't a more spruce looking conductor on the road. He was a dashing, handsome young fellow, and he ruled supreme in the heart of this fierce, untamed creature of the round house and yards.

Blazes had never been to school, but she had a good deal more of good common sense than is usually allotted to we mortals. All her life had been spent in the roundhouse and around the yards, and she loved the iron monster with a passionate love second to her passionate affection for Dave Gilchrist, whose wife she had thought to be.

Now, Dave Gilchrist was, after the manner of this kind, something of a "masher," and though Blazes did not know it and would not have believed had it been told her, he was married already, but manlike, he did not see as that was any reason why he should not flirt with Blazes or any other girl that took his fancy.

One evening as Dave and Blazes were sitting on the sofa in Ben Clark's little parlor—or, more properly, as Dave was seated on the sofa and Blazes, well, she on his lap—a picture dropped out of his pocket and fell unnoticed to the floor.

After Dave had gone Blazes saw the picture, and, picking it up, she read upon the back, "Mrs. Dave Gilchrist." The picture was that of a fair girl, apparently about her own age, and as she looked at it Blazes realized that her lover had been deceiving another trusting woman as well as wrecking her own happiness. Strangely enough, she did not hate the fair creature whose counterfeit she was gazing at, but rather she pitied her.

Choking back a passionate sob, Blazes went to bed, but it was little rest she got that night. In the early morning she crept out to the shed where her favorite old engine, old Seventy-nine, was undergoing the grooming, and, slipping into the cab, she sat and thought.

She felt drowsy and soon fell into a light doze, from which she was awakened by the sound of a whispered conversation. One of the voices she recognized as a man who had been trying to incite the men to a general uprising and the other was that of a man who had been discharged from the service a few days before.

"How about the telegraph wires?" asked the walking delegate.

"I've fixed 'em O. K.," replied the second. "There's only one thing I don't like about this 'ere job. Dave Gilchrist's wife's a-goin' to come down on that train and I'm afraid she'll git hurt. It's a h—l of a way for Dave to make love to Blazes when he's got a wife in Topaz."

"Well," said the delegate, "We'll get even with the corporation this time. I've fixed the rails so that the Six'll go into the ditch just the other side of the station. Some of the officials are a-comin' down with her, d——n 'em."

Blazes waited until the men were out of sight. She's due in thirty minutes and they've spiked the rails just beyond the bridge," she thought. Luckily old Seventy-nine had up steam waiting to go out with the eastbound local that left after Six had passed.

Blazes seized the throttle and the engine sprang out of the stall like a startled bird from her nest. "There's a straight road to Topaz and the engineer will see me in time to stop. That poor, fair lady. But she's Dave's wife. Mebbe if she was dead Dave'd marry me," she thought, and involuntarily slowed up. But the better side of her nature asserted itself, and she sped on with the speed of a frightened pigeon.

Suddenly she heard the sound of wheels behind. The wreckers had divined her purpose and given chase. "My God!" she thought, "I can't keep ahead of 'em and do all the firin'," but never a thought of abandoning the undertaking occurred to her. Slowly the better manned engine gained upon the brave girl. Seventy-nine was doing her best, but Blazes was not equal to the task of handling her engine and keeping up the fires.

The chase kept up for several miles. It was twenty to the first station and Blazes saw that she was soon to be captured. Her face paled as a sudden thought flashed across her mind and her lips quivered, but she set her teeth and plied the waning fire with fresh coal. Seventy-nine was running fifty-five miles and the pursuers were not 100 yards behind when with a smothered cry, "God help me! It's for Dave and her!" Blazes quickly reversed and threw the throttle wide open.

The engine responded like a thing of life and sprang back toward the pursuing monster. There was a terrible crash, a woman's shriek, the terrible hists of escaping steam, and Blazes had saved the train. The engineer of No. 6 was leaning out of his cab and far ahead he saw the wrecked engines. Two short, sharp blasts of the whistle and he had his train under control. Slowly he drew near the scene of the catastrophe, wondering what could have been the cause.

When the train came to a standstill he leaped from his seat and ran to a mangled body lying near poor old Seventy-nine.

"My God- It's Blazes!" As the passengers crowded around, one tall blonde bent over the dying girl.

"Mrs. Gilchrist?"

"Yes, dear; what is it?"

"I did it for you. Lean down closer, closer. I loved him—Dave, and—and tell them that the rails are spiked just beyond the bridge, Dave!" and with her lover's wife's kiss warm on her forehead Blazes "registered in" at that station where no one is ever docked for being behind time.—Omaha Bee.

LOST HIS VOICE.

Peculiar Affliction of Hon. E. S. Wallace, of Springfield.

Springfield, O., June 13.—It will be a great shock to the friends all over the country of Hon. E. S. Wallace, the silver tongued orator and well known republican politician, to learn that he has nearly lost his voice, the result of an elevator accident at the Cleveland convention two years ago. Mr. Wallace has left for Philadelphia to have a surgical operation performed on the muscles of his neck.

S.S.S.
CURES SCROFULA
Mrs. E. J. Rowell, Medford, Mass., says her mother has been cured of Scrofula by the use of four bottles of S.S.S. after having had much other treatment, and being reduced to quite a low condition of health, as it was thought she could not live.

S.S.S. Cured my little boy of hereditary scrofula which appeared all over his face. For a year I had given up all hope of his recovery, when finally I was induced to use S.S.S. A few bottles cured him, and no symptoms of the disease remain.

SAFE, SURE AND SPEEDY.

No external remedy ever yet devised has so fully and unquestionably met these three prime conditions as successfully as Allcock's Porous Plasters. They are safe because they contain no deleterious drugs and are manufactured upon scientific principles of medicine. They are sure because nothing goes into them except ingredients which are exactly adapted to the purposes for which a plaster is required. They are speedy in their action because their medicinal qualities go right to their work of relieving pain and restoring the natural and healthy performance of the functions of muscles, nerves and skin. Do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for Allcock's, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

Ex-Speaker Reed no longer girdles his ample circumference with a silken sash. A big, broad yellow trunk strap now does duty as a bay window embracer.

Mrs. Huggins does a great deal of astronomical work for her husband, Professor Huggins, and does it so well that it needs no revising before being officially recorded.

The report that Mrs. Langtry only gets $500 a week for appearing at the Criterion theater, in London, suggests the thought that this will about cover her florist's and perfumer's bills.

Money Order Superintendent Mary Steele, of the Pittsburg postoffice, handles $2,000,000 a year, the largest business controlled by any woman in the department, or possibly in the country.

The Chinese minister is the most expensively dressed man in Washington. He never appears more than once in the same costume, and it is supposed that he has $150,000 worth of dry goods dedicated to his personal adornment.

It is thirty-three years since R. C. Brown went to Colorado, too poor to pay for the washing of a paper collar. He is now building a $1,500,000 hotel at Denver, and will have a few spare millions left when it is finished and paid for.

Edward M. Field's insanity seems to be giving way to the quiet and repose incidental to incarceration in a properly governed asylum; and there is a probability of his soon being taken to New York to be put through the farce of a trial.

A DEMOCRATIC ORGAN.

U. P. Members of the Party Buy the Ishpeming Press.

Ishpeming, Mich., June 13.—A strong company with some of the wealthiest and most prominent democrats of the upper peninsular among the stockholders, has been formed to publish the Ishpeming Press, one of the three daily papers printed north of the straits.

The paper has rather leaned toward republicanism in the past, but it will now be made an out-and-out democratic sheet. Its news service will be improved, the design being to make it the leading organ of the democracy in the peninsula, as the Marquette Mining Journal is of republicanism.

E. M. Hopkin, an earnest young worker of Shiawassee country, will take charge of the editorial policy of the paper for the present, H. J. Stevens, founder of the Press, continuing as manager. Mr. Hopkin was engrossing and enrolling clerk of the house during the last legislative session.

DARE TO DO RIGHT.

Talmage Gives Counsel to Christians.

Interesting Sermon Preached by the Brooklyn Divine Before Sailing for the Orient.

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 13.—Dr. Talmage prefaced his sermon Sunday with a statement to the effect that he would sail on Wednesday next for Europe, and might be able to be present at the distribution in the famine-stricken districts of Russia of the Christian Herald relief cargo, consisting of 3,000,000 pounds of flour and other supplies which go out this week on the steamship Leo, chartered for the purpose. He congratulated the American people on the generous spirit evinced by this magnificent gift to the starving people. His sermon was from the text, Ephes. vi. 11: "Put on the whole armor of God."

There is in this text a great rattle of shields, and helmets and swords. Soldiers are getting ready for battle. We have had recently in this church new enlistments, and I shall address myself to those in this and other churches who are putting on the armor of God, and who may feel themselves to be as yet only raw recruits. "Masterly retreat" is a term often used in military circles, but in religion there is no such thing. It is either glorius advance or disgraceful and ignominious falling back.

It would be a strange thing if all our anxiety about men ceased the moment they were converted. You would almost doubt the sanity of that farmer who having planted the corn and seen it just sprout above ground, should say: "My work is all done. I have no more anxiety for the field." No. There is work for the plow and the hoe, and there must be careful keeping up of the fences, and there must be a frightening away of the birds that would pillage the field.

And I say the entrance upon Christian life is only the implantation of grace in the heart. There is earnest, hard work yet to be done, and perhaps many years of anxiety before there shall be heard the glorious shout of "Harvest home." The beginning to be a Christian is only putting down the foundation; but after that there are years of hammering, polishing, carving, lifting, before the structure is completed. It takes five years to make a Christian character; it takes twenty years; it takes forty years; it takes seventy years, if a man shall live so long. In other words, a man dying after half a century of Christian experience feels that he has only learned the "A B C'S" of a glorious alphabet.

The next year will decide a great deal in your history, young Christian man. It will decide whether you are to be a burning and shining light of the church, or a spark of ashes.

It will decide whether you are to be a strong man in Christ Jesus, with gigantic blows striking the iron mail of darkness, or a bedwarfed, whining, grumbling soldier that ought to be drummed out of the Lord's camp with the "Rogue's March."

You have only just been launched; the voyage is to be made. Earth and heaven and hell are watching to see how fast you will sail, how well you will weather the tempest, and whether at last, amid the shouting of the angels, you shall come into the right harbor. My God help me this morning to give you three or four words of Christian counsel, as I address myself more especially to those who have just now entered the Christian life.

My first word of counsel is, hold before your soul a very high model. Do not say: "I wish I could pray like that man, or speak like this man, or have the consecration of this one." Say: "Here is the Lord Jesus Christ, a perfect pattern. By that I mean, with God's grace, to shape all my life."

In other words you will never be any more a Christian than you strive to be. If you build a foundation one hundred by one hundred feet, you will have a large house. If you resolve to be only a middling Christian, you will only be a middling Christian. If you have no high aspiration in a worldly direction you will never succeed in business.

If you have no high aspiration in religious things you will never succeed in religion. You have a right to aspire to the very highest style of Christian character.

From your feet there reaches out a path of Christian attainment which you may take, and I deliberately say that you may be a better man than Paul, or David, or Summerfield, or Doddridge—a better woman than Hannah More or Charlotte Elizabeth. Why not? Did they have a monopoly on Christian grace? Did they have a private key of the storehouse of God's mercy? Does God shut you out from the gladness and goodness to which they were introduced? Oh, no. You have just the same promises, just the same Christ, just the same Holy Ghost, just the same offers of present and everlasting love, and if you fall short of what they were—ay, if you do not come up to the point which they reached and go beyond it—it is not because Christ has shut you out from any point of moral and spiritual elevation, but because you deliberately refuse to take it.

I admit that a man cannot become a Christian like that without a struggle; but what do you get without fighting for it? The fortresses of darkness are to be taken by storm. You may by acute strategy flank the hosts of temptation; but there are temptations, there are evils in the way, that you will have to meet face to face, and it will be shot for shot, gun for gun, grip for grip, slaughter for slaughter. The Apostle Paul over and over again represents the Christian life as a combat.

When the war vessel of Christ's church comes into glory bringing its crew and its passengers, it woll not come in like a North river yacht, beautifully painted and adorned, swinging into the boathouse after a pleasure excursion. Oh, no. It will be like a vessel coming with a heavy cargo from China or India, the marks of the wave and the hurricane upon it—sails rent, rigging spliced, pumps all working to keep her afloat, bulwarks knocked away. I see such a vessel coming in and get out my small boat and push towards her, and I shout: "Ahoy, captain! What are you going to do with those shivered timbers? That was a beautiful ship when you went out, but you have ruined it." "Oh," says the captain, "I have a fine cargo on board, and by this round trip I have made ten fortunes." So I believe it will be when the Christian soul at last comes into the harbor of heaven. It will come bearing upon it the marks of a great stress of weather. You can see, by the very looks of that soul as it comes into glory that it was driven by a storm, and dashed in the hurricane; but by so much as the voyage is rough will the harbor be blessed. "If ye suffered with him on earth, ye shall be glorified with him in heaven." Aim high. Do not be satisfied to be like the Christians all around you. Be more than they have ever been for Christ. An old Arabian king was showing a beautiful sword that had been given him, when one of his courtiers said: "This sword is too short. You cannot do anything with it." Said the king's son: "To a brave man no sword is too short. If it be too short, take one step in advance, and then it is long enough." So I say to any Christian who may feel that he has poor weapons to fight against sin and darkness and death, "Advance upon the enemy. In the strength of Christ go forward. God is for you, and if God be for you, who can be against you? Remember that God never puts you in battle but he gives you weapons with which to fight."

My second word of counsel to those who have recently entered upon Christian life is: Abstain from all pernicious associations; and take only those that are only useful and beneficent. Stay out of all associations that would damage your Christian character. Take only those associations that will help you. A learned man said: "If I stay with that man Fenelon any longer I shall get to be a Christian in spite of myself." In other words there is a mighty power in Christian associations. Now, what kind of associations shall we, as Christians, seek after? I think we ought to get in company better than ourselves, never going into company worse than ourselves. If we get into company a little better than ourselves and there are ten people in the company, ten chances to one we will be bettered. If we get into company a little worse than ourselves, and there are ten people in that company, ten chances to one you will be worse than we were before.

My next word of counsel is that you be actively employed.

I have another word of counsel to give those who have just entered Christian life, and that is, be faithful in prayer.

THE FARIBAULT PLAN.

A Triumph at Rome Claimed by Its Opponents.

New York, June 13.—The World says: Father James Connolly, secretary to his grace, Archbishop Corrigan, smiled last evening when a reporter handed him a cablegram which the Very Rev. Morris J. Cambell, provincial of the Society of Jesus, received yesterday from Rome. His pleasant face wreathed in smiles and his bright eyes sparkled as he perused it. The message chronicled a triumph for the opponents of the Faribault parochial school system, which in America embraces nine-tenths of the Catholic hierarchy, with Archbishop Corrigan as their most aggressive leader, while it means a political defeat for its most potent advocate, his eminence, Cardinal Gibbons, and his grace, Archbishop Ireland, with their lesser supporters. This is why Father Connolly smiled a charitable, but unmistakable smile of satisfaction as he read the following cablegram:

"Rome, June 10., 1892.

"To the Very Rev. Morris J. Cambell, S. J., Provincial:

"An official letter signed by the prefect of the propaganda, has been addressed to the Civilita Catholica and published today. The letter expresses the pope's sorrow at the attacks directed against the Civilita's standing. It refutes the calumnies against it and proclaims its writers the fearless defenders of justice and the interests of religion. It confirms the papal briefs favoring the Civilita and declares it to have been always true and devoted to the Holy See. The text of the letter has been mailed to you. * * *"

"The letter seems to be self-explanatory," said Father Connolly, "and I can not see that it invites any comment. However, there are two points which I will explain. In the first place it is plain the holy father desires to repudiate the claim that the position the Civilita assumed in the controversy over the Faribault school question was antagonistic to that held in the propaganda, and it is evident that these attacks, emanating from whatever source, were highly displeasing to the vatican.

"The Civilita has always been edited by the most learned men in Rome, men who have always been esteemed highly by the vatican for their wise and dignified position on questions of church discipline which have arisen from time to time. Of course in matters of faith and morals there are no differences among the canonists of the church.

"The second point is this: It confirms the papal briefs. Pope Pius IX., on several occasions, wrote official letters to the editors of the Civilita, approving the wise utterances of that paper on certain grave questions which were brought to the attention of the propaganda. The fact that Pope Leo confirms these briefs is complete evidence that the vatican approves the position which the Civilita took so aggressively on the Faribault school system question."

Father Connolly was asked what explanation there is of Archbishop Ireland's repeated declarations that the Civilita's recent utterances had been condemned at the vatican and his position on the school question approved and confirmed by the pope.

"That remains for him to explain," said the archbishop's secretary, with a dubious shake of his head.

His grace could not be seen last night, but Father Connolly said he thought that the archbishop would desire to add nothing to what he had said.

TANEY COUNTY CASES.

Four of the Men Released—Others Bound Over.

Springfield, Mo., June 13.—Indirect but reliable advices were received from Taney county to the effect that the celebrated trials had come to a sudden end.

At the conclusion of George Friend's testimony, the state, although not introducing all the testimony, announced that it thought it had sufficient evidence to hold the prisoners, and rested its case.

The defense surprised all by announcing that it had no evidence to offer, but asked that Reuben Isaacs, Bill Candle, John Kinyon and one of the Stockstills be released, as Friend has not identified them. The state agreed to this, and the above four were set at liberty at once. The prisoners will be returned to the Ozark and Springfield jails.

George W. Friend, the confessing lyncher, will be brought back to Springfield and protected from the fury of the mob. The cases will be brought before the next session of the Taney county grand jury, which meets in November, when an indictment will be certain, and a final conviction probable.

A FEMALE BURGLAR.

She Was Caught Robbing a St. Louis House.

St. Louis, June 13.—The leader of the gang of burglars that has been terrorizing residents of the West End suburbs recently has at last been captured.

Officer Ed Nace, of the Fifth district, as he was patrolling his beat on Lanham avenue, heard a peculiar noise that announced that something was wrong. The noise was caused by muffled footsteps in the back yard of No. 7119 Lanham avenue. Mr. Nace leaped over the fence and ran into the yard to see what was the trouble. As he did so he espied the figure of a slender youth speeding down the alley.

The officer pursued the fugitive down Noonan avenue, and in a few seconds overtook him. In the struggle that ensued the officer was astonished to discover that his captive, though dressed in man's clothes, was a woman. The captive admitted as much and gave her name as Wilhelmina Goepling.

She confessed to Mr. Nace that a few minutes before she, with the assistance of a masculine accomplice who had escaped, had burglarized the residence of H. C. Thompson at the above number. The officer took the disguised woman back with him to the house and found on a porch ready to be carried away a lot of stolen household goods, including a fine big brass kettle, an elegant silver-plated lamp and three chairs.

The police are greatly pleased over the capture, as burglaries in the West End have been numerous of late. Week before last a big haul was made just over the line dividing the city from the county, and valuables were taken amounting to nearly $1,100.

The police think there are three men and one woman in the gang. They are generally accompanied by a wagon and a fast team by which they escape when they are discovered.

The police are endeavoring to find the headquarters of the gang.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Rocheport, Mo., June 13.—The whole business portion of this city was burned yesterday. Sixteen buildings were destroyed. Loss $75,000.

"Is this hot enough for you?" is a silly question; but if you meet a man who complains of suffering from the heat, ten to one you will find, on inquiry, that he does not use Ayer's Sarsaparilla to tone up his system and free his blood from irritating humors.

JUDGE COWAN DEAD.

The Distinguished Jurist Succumbs to a Paralytic Stroke.

Cincinnati, June 13.—Judge C. W. Cowan, who was stricken with paralysis, died at the Grand hotel. When stricken he was talking to client in his office. He was a prominent member in the Hamilton county bar, and was the leading lawyer in the Barr will cast.

JOHNSTON, HOLLOWAY & CO. Philadelphia

An OFFICIAL APPEAL

For Aid for the Sufferers in the Oil Regions.

Titusville, Pa., June 13.—The following is given out officially to the public:

"The prompt and generous assistance given to our afflicted citizens in their recent calamity by the people in all parts of the country, is most gratefully appreciated by the sufferers and all residents of Titusville. It is due to the public that we make a statement of our condition as exactly and accurately as is possible in six days after the calamity.

"We have our relief committees thoroughly organized, and the distribution of food, clothing, bedding and other supplies is progressing with system. Perfect order prevails. Large forces of laborers are employed in removing wrecks from the streets and in clearing up the ruins of houses.

"Fifty-nine bodies have been buried. Several persons are still missing. We do not need clothing, food or other supplies. Our need will be for money to relieve those who have lost by fire and flood, and to repair the enormous destruction of property.

"The district devastated by fire and flood extends through the entire length of the city, for about one mile and a half. Its breadth is from one-eighth to one-fourth of a mile. The estimated loss of property exceeds one million of dollars. The losses fall chiefly upon the poor and the laboring people.

"Within the bounds named were more than 150 dwellings, as well as many shops, manufactories and oil refineries where labor was employed. The loss of personal property in the homes of the people was almost total, while very many lost not only their houses and contents, but the ground on which they stood.

"The streets are many of them destroyed and the loss in this particular and in bridges is very large. Everything possible is being done to alleviate the distressed, and our people are recovering hope and spirit.

"E. O. EMERSON, Mayor.
"RODGER SHERMAN,
"Chairman Relief Committee."

DR. OTTMAN. the Celebrated Examining Surgeon of the

FRANCE MEDICAL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE,

38 & 40 W. Gay St., one block N. of State House, Columbus, O. Incorporated, 1886. Capital, $300,000.

DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, of New York, the well known and successful Specialists in Chronic Diseases and Diseases of the Eye and Ear, on account of their large practice in Ohio, have established the FRANCE MEDICAL INSTITUTE, where all forms of Chronic, Nervous and Private Diseases will be successfully treated on the most Scientific principles. They are ably assisted by a full corps of eminent Physicians and Surgeons, each one being a well known specialist in his profession.

CANCER positively cured without pain or use of the knife, by a new method.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES.—DR. FRANCE, after years of experience, has discovered the greatest cure known for all diseases peculiar to the sex. Female diseases positively cured by the new remedy, OLIVE BLOSSOM. The cure is effected by home treatment. Entirely harmless and easily applied. Consultation Free and Strictly Confidential. Correspondence promptly answered.

YOUNG MEN—Who have become victims of solitary vice, that dreadful and destructive habit, which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of exalted talent and brilliant intellect, may call with confidence.

DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, after years of experience, have discovered the greatest cure known for weakness in the back and limbs, involuntary discharges, impotency, general debility, nervousness, languor, confusion of ideas, palpitation of the heart, timidity, trembling, dimness of sight, or giddiness, diseases of the head, throat, nose, or skin, affections of the liver, lungs, stomach, or bowels—those terrible disorders arising from the solitary vice of youth—and secret practices, blighting their most radiant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage impossible. Take one candid thought before it is too late. A week or month may place your case beyond the reach of hope. Our method of treatment will speedily and permanently cure the most obstinate case, and absolutely restore perfect manhood.

TO MIDDLE-AGED MEN.—There are many from the age of 30 to 60 who are troubled with frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight burning or smarting sensation, weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examination of the urinary deposits, a ropy sediment will be found, or the color will be a thin or milkish hue. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is a second stage of seminal weakness. We will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

DISEASES OF WOMEN.—We have a special department, thoroughly organized, and devoted exclusively to the treatment of diseases of women. Every case consulting our specialists, whether by letter or in person, is given the most careful and considerate attention. Important cases (and we get few which have not baffled the skill of all the home physicians) have the benefit of a full council of skilled specialists. In treatment of diseases peculiar to females, our success has been marked, over two-thirds of our patients being ladies, old, young, married, single, rich and poor. Our method is entirely free from objectionable features of the general practitioner, namely, "Local treatment." We seldom find it necessary. We prepare remedies, constitutional and local, as the case demands, and instruct ladies how to treat themselves.

MARRIAGE.—Married persons, or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness, loss of procreative powers, impotency, or any other disqualification, speedily restored.

PRIVATE DISEASES.—Blood Poison, Venereal Taint, Gleet, Stricture, Seminal Emissions, Loss of Sexual Power, Weakness of Sexual Organs, Want of Desire in Male or Female, whether from imprudent habits of youth or sexual habits of mature years, or any cause that debilitates the sexual functions, speedily and permanently cured. Consultation free and strictly confidential. Absolute cures guaranteed. Medicines sent free from observation to all parts of the United States.

EPILEPSY, OR FITS—Positively cured by a new and never-failing method. Testimonials furnished.

FREE EXAMINATION OF THE URINE.—Each person applying for medical treatment should send or bring from 2 to 4 ounces of urine (that passed first in the morning preferred), which will receive a careful chemical and microscopical examination, and if requested a written analysis will be given.

Persons ruined in health by unlearned pretenders, who keep trifling with them month after month, giving poisonous and injurious compounds, should apply immediately. Delays are dangerous.

WONDERFUL CURES Perfected in old cases which have been neglected or unskillfully treated. No experiments or failures. Parties treated by mail or express, but where possible, personal consultation is preferred. Curable cases guaranteed. No risks incurred.

Wheat Opened Lower and Advanced.

Hot Winds are Now the Scare Crow.

Believed That They Will Wither Up the Crops—Comment and Actual Facts.

Wheat opened over a cent lower this morning and steadily advanced a cent and a half and then eased off at closing.

The advance was principally caused by reports of very hot weather and hot winds in Kansas damaging both wheat and corn. Partridge also helped the advance buying in his sales of past few days.

London closed 4 1-2@10 1-2d lower, Berlin 3 1-2 marks lower, Liverpool 1-2d lower, and Paris 30 centimes on flour and 15 centimes on wheat, both lower. Exports, including 50,000 bu wheat from New Orleans and 6,800 packages of flour, equalled 416,000 bu.

Cash wheat was in good demand and sales were reported at 86 3-4c and 87c, closing 87 1-4c. June same as cash. July sold on call at 84 5-8c and 84 1-2c. After call started at 84 1-2c and closing at 84 3-4c. August, which is by far the most active month, opened on call at 82 1-2c to 82 5-8c. After call sales commenced at 82 3-4c, sold to 82 7-8c and closed at 83c. No. 1 white sale at 86 1-2c; No. 3 red and white sale at 83c and smutty wheat sale at 80c. No. 3 soft about 84c, and August No. 3 about 4 1-2c under No. 2 for same month.

Corn lower with more doing. Sales were all early and included No. 2 at 48c; No. 3 at 47c and No. 4 at 44@44 1-2c. July at 47c to 47 1-4. All worth at close about 1-2c more.

Oats neglected. We quote No. 2 about 35c.

Rye sold at 80c for No. 2.

In New York June wheat closes 7-8c and July 2-8c lower. June corn 3-4c lower and July steady. June oats 1-2c lower.

In Chicago July closes 1-8c lower. June corn 1 1-8c up, July 1-2c better and June oats 1-2c higher.

Mark Lane Express.

London, June 13.—The Mark Lane Express says the corn market has been well attended during the week, but that the crop reports are of an extremely various character. Spring corn has shared the weakness and the wheat market is lower in all branches. The decline in English and foreign white does not exceed six pence on the past two weeks; foreign red wheat being a shilling less. Flour is not so depressed, Americans having acquired a persistently good retail sale, inside and outside of the regular London area. Maize is firm for flat and round sorts, but is lower owing to large contracts for shipments in July and August.

The principal trading was in Missouri Pacific, Omaha, New England, St. Paul, Atchison, Reading, Rock Island, Chicago Gas and Burlington. The tone of speculation was firm for all the stocks except New England, which was weak and declined 1 1-8 per cent. to 38 on the announcement of the acquiring of the Housatonic by the New York & New Haven. The dealings in the granger stocks were attended with considerable excitement. The noon prices were 1-8 to 2 1-2 per cent. higher than Saturday figures. New England quieted down toward noon and its price was steady on a denial of the report about the Housatonic railroad. At 1 p. m. the market is quiet.

Kansas Crops.

Kansas City, June 13.—Clinton Franklin, statician of the Union Pacific railway, will to-morrow issue his monthly estimates on the crop situation in Kansas. He says the reported damage to crops in Kansas have been greatly exaggerated and that the prospects are that this season will be one of the most prosperous ever know in Kansas. He estimates the yield of spring and winter wheat at 35,826,000 bushels, and increase of about 2,500,000 bushels over last year's crop; spring wheat 4,826,168 bushels, an increase of 2,447,109 bushels; corn, 137,347,725 bushels; oats 43,961,100 bushels, or an increase of about 4,000,000 bushels.

Nothing Succeeds . . .
. . . . . . Like Success!

The truth of this adage has never been more fittingly illustrated than by the enormous sale of the High Arm No. 9 Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine during the past two years. It is the best the world has ever produced, no extra attachments required to do fancy work. No family who study their own interests will fail to examine the No. 9 before they buy or trade machines with any one. A trial free to all.

Office and Salesroom:
317 ADAMS STREET

Agents wanted for city and country.

BOARDMAN & GRAY: PIANOS

ESTABLISHED 1837.

Sold continuously since 1870 at 219 Summit Street.

This make, sold in large numbers for more than 21 years by a reliable house, recommended and indorsed by nearly all of the best musicians and teachers in Toledo, has become a formidable barrier to the sale of other first-class pianos offered by competing dealers and their agents, by reason of their constantly increasing sale and popularity. Competitors, alarmed and uneasy, resort to many unreasonable as well as untrue statements, which they work off on confiding individuals, and cause them to be circulated in this city and elsewhere. Among these old chestnuts, is the statement that "The Whitney & Currier company manufacture the Boardman & Gray, or have a proprietary interest in their manufacture, and are actuated by that interest, to praise their merit and push their sale." The first part of this statement is untrue. This company has no proprietary interest in the manufacture of any piano. It is actuated in recommending the Boardman & Gray piano by the same motives which actuate any honest individual in recommending that which he knows to be of superior merit, and also by the same motives any one would have in pushing the sale of any successful meritorious article in which a reasonable profit may be realized, and that which is true of Boardman & Gray in this respect, is true of other makes this company has for sale. The superior facilities the Whitney & Currier company has in purchasing, enable it to give greater value for a like sum of money than can be had of its competitors. No other house can show an equal line of first-class Pianos, nor the number from which to select in making a purchase. All are invited to call and see for themselves, whether wishing to buy or not.

THE WHITNEY & CURRIER CO.,
219 Summit street.

Why Should Piano Dealers and Their Agents Co Cut of Their Way to Decry the Superior Merits of the Boardman & Cray Pianos? The Reason is Obvious.
